SOMETHING WORTH WHILE IS WORTH WAITING FOR!

THEY JUST HAPPEN.

The noise and the people ... were tremendous. You could hear darts bursting balloons, roulette wheels spinning, legs being whistled at, and watch peanut butter sandwiches being consumed by the hundreds. Campus Chest made contributing to charity a pleasure instead of a chore.

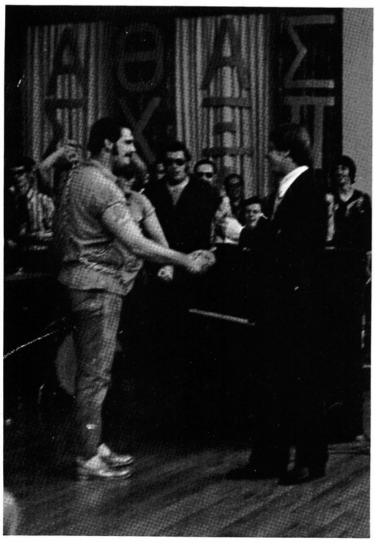

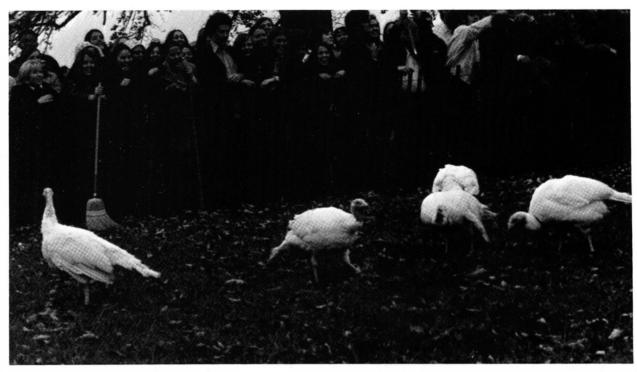

There's no doubt about it, Greek Sing is very impressive. The Greeks showed a fine quality of sticking together and working for their goal. And whether they went after that big prize performing songs like Camelot or Paint Your Wagon, or whether they went "Grease", all their efforts deserved the audience's warm applause. Some of those groups should quit school and go professional.

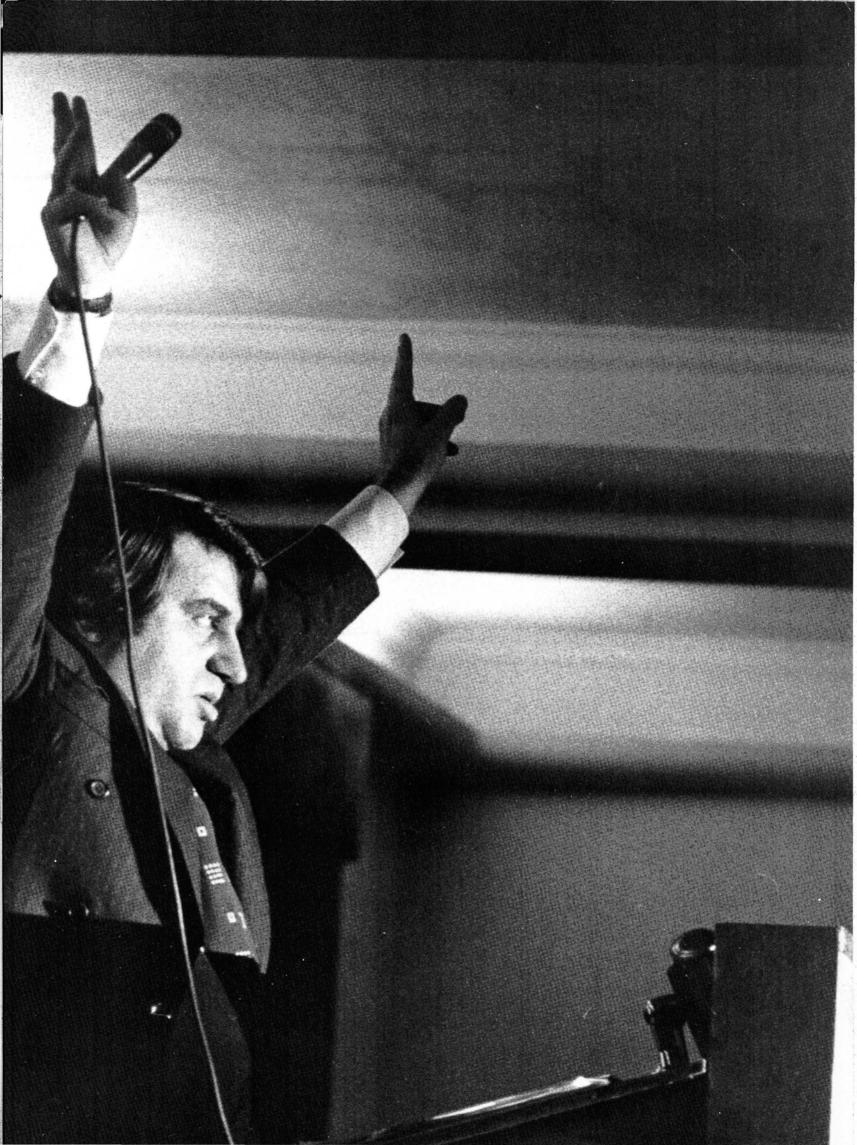

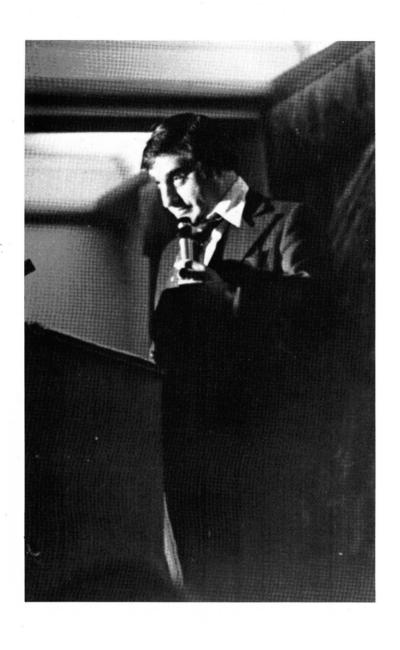

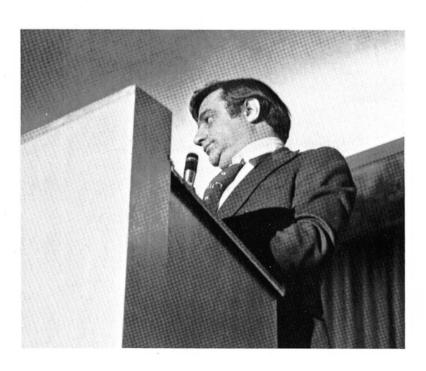

Where else but at ONU would you ever expect to witness a real live Turkey Race? Sponsored by CBOG, the Greeks and independents were given one week to train a turkey for a foot race held at the end of the week. (Turkeys are so dumb that they swallow the rain when it storms and end up drowning themselves.) What is your secret Sigs?!

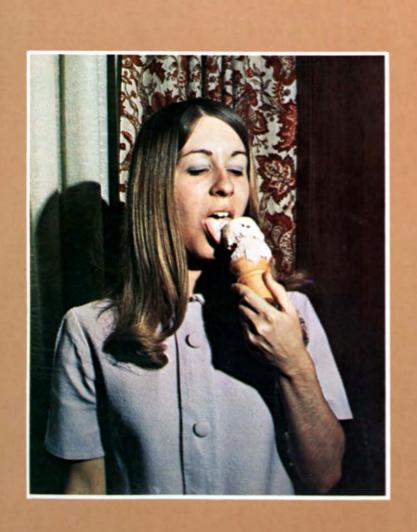

Times are very trying these days, and it is sometimes easier to play armchair quarter back when politics are concerned than it is to figure out why our governmental leaders do the things they do.

Owing part of his fame to his remarkable resemblance to former president Lyndn Johnson, and the other part of his fame to his ability to mime Richard Nixon, Dave Frye displayed his political humor and wit. He made one thing perfectly clear, he was the president.

Beauty is in the eyes of the beholder, so behold and love it! These girls exemplify the qualities of the ideal girl for each of their respective titles.

Shelly Hamilton, AZD, was elected Greek Queen this year by a vote of the nine men's social fraternities.

Charla Burkett, AZD, received the honor of being this year's Campus Chest Queen. Last but not least, Linda Dunlap was named the Lettermen's Queen for this year by the athletes in the Lettermen's Club.

With home coming came the You-Can-Do-It Party, flagpole traditions, campaigns for king and queen, perilous pushmobile races, and school spirit.

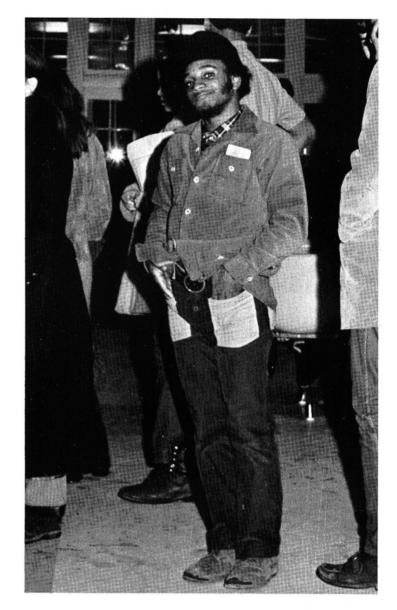

Then to bring the entire homecoming theme to its culmination, the Fighting Polar Bears went out and got frost bitten at the hands of the Anderson Ravens. At least there were two enthusiastic people at the game, our beautiful queen Audrey Massie from Youngstown, who with a little help from her friends became the first independent Homecoming Queen, and her king escort, Wayne Washington, who with a little help from his friends became the first black homecoming king at northern.

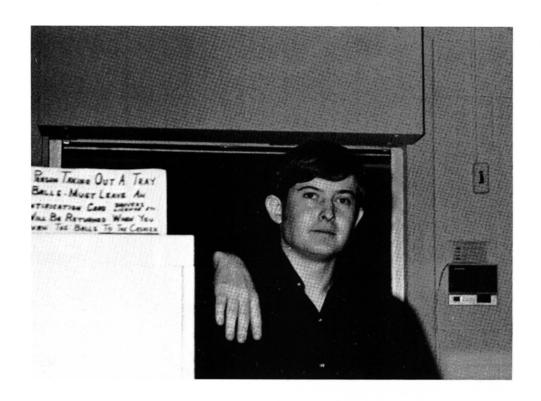

Complaints about the food in the cafeteria sometimes flow as free as the Pepsi-Cola. However . . . just about the time your stomach is ready to become an ulcer, mental diagnosis comes to ARA Slater and the prescription calls for a special meal.

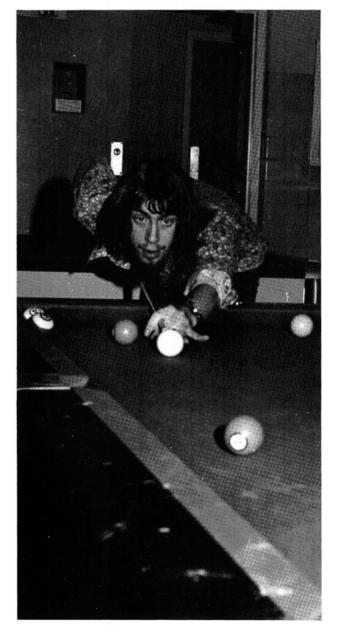

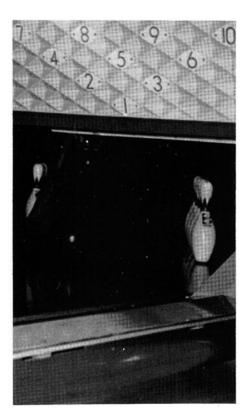

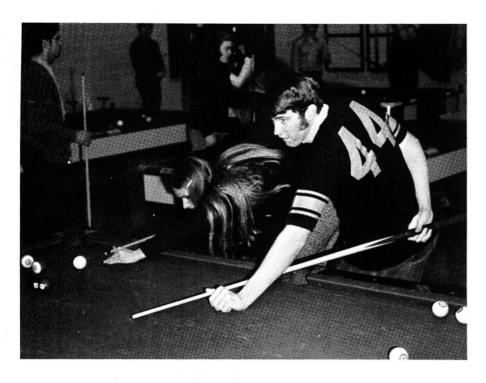

Selfish moments spent lingering, waiting, planning; lazily.

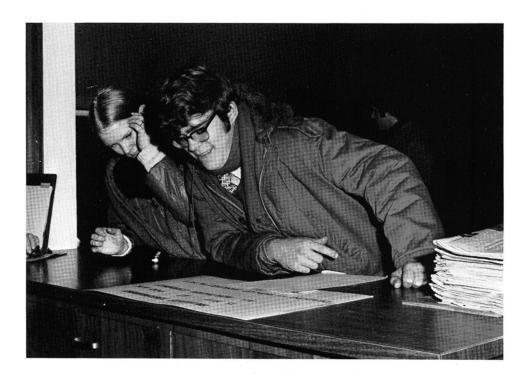

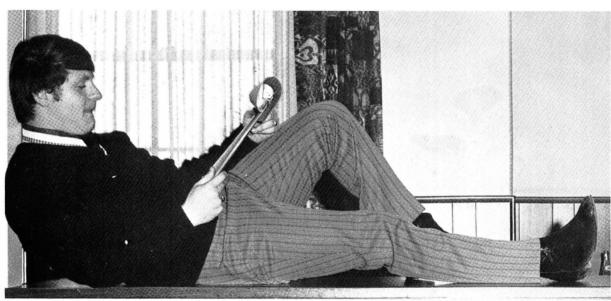

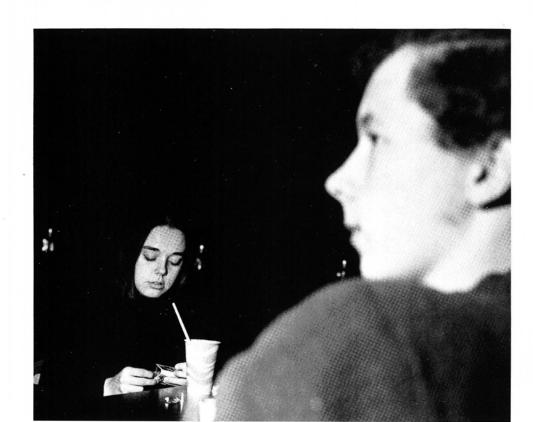

An atmosphere of intellect, disappointment, satisfaction, and constant challenge.

Absent-mindedness is remedied here, apathy is born here, George lives here.

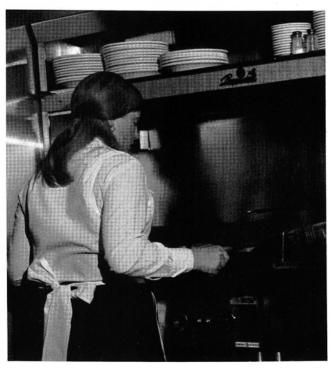

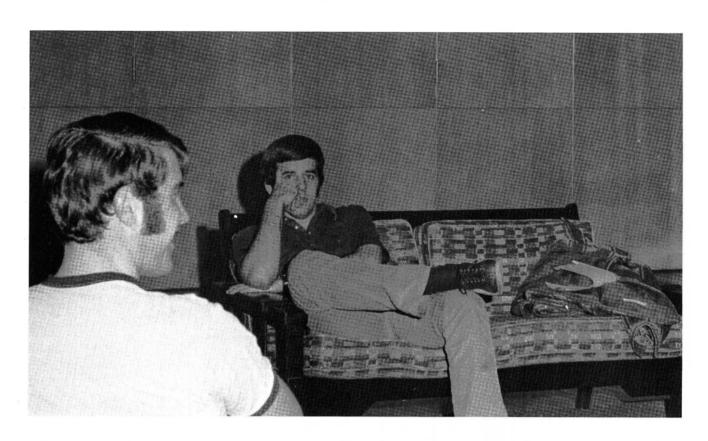

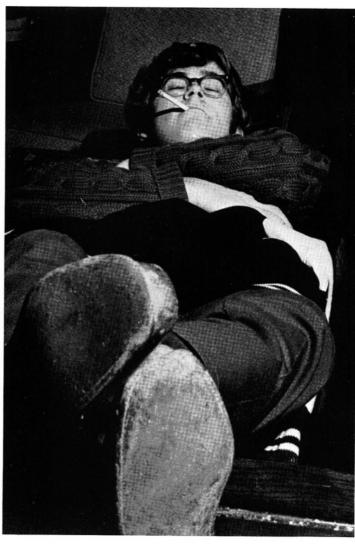

Around the corner is the infamous and relaxing Snack Shop, where many a bridge master points are earned, and an occasional date or two can be picked up. Many a four point student have been buried here.

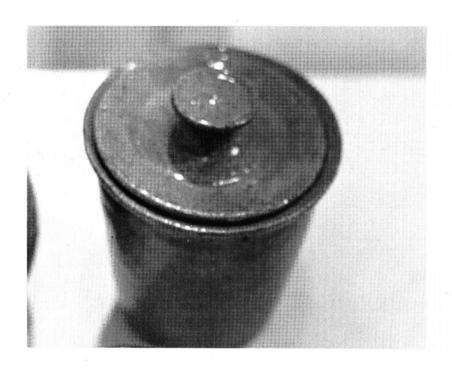

A perfect setting for quiet contemplation, solitude, closeness, and serenity.

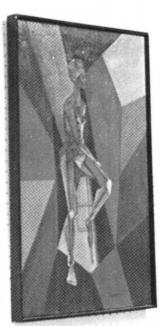

"Art Show" implies more than a mere exhibit, but rather a tangible display of explored, complex emotions, refined into perceptual forms sometimes consisting of a definite mood, though more often possessing a mystic air, which leaves the final touch of creation to the viewer.

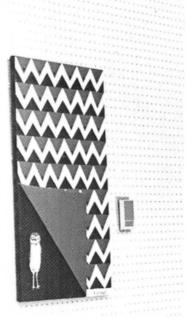

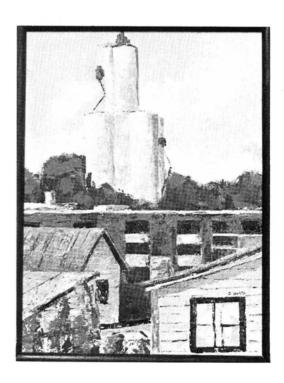

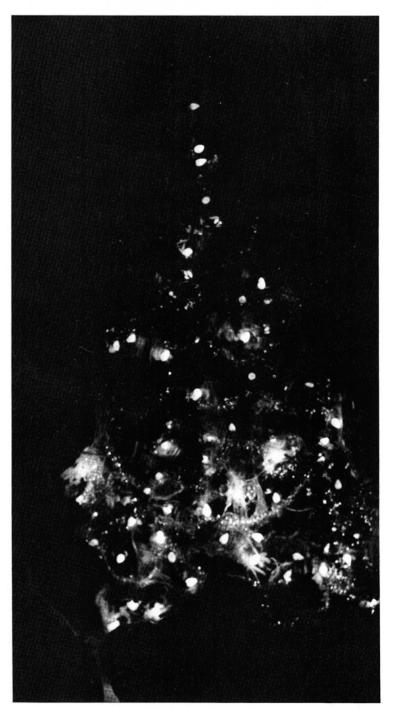

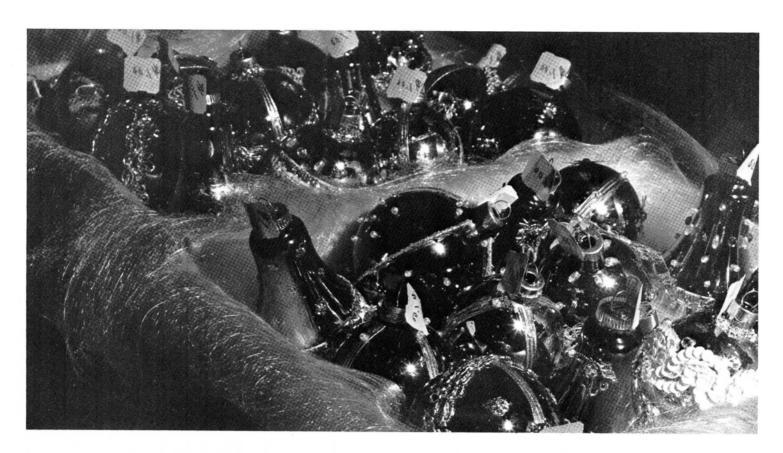

Tis season to be jolly! . . . t

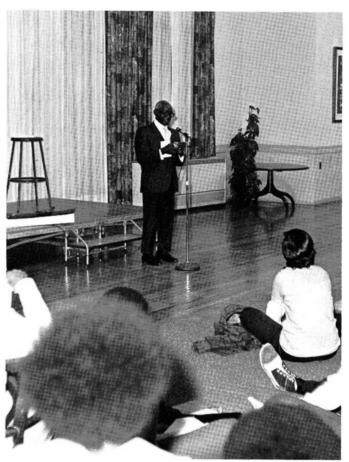

The Christmas season found little or no snow to celebrate with, and no over-decorative amount of Xmas lights could hide the fact.

The administration, the school, the faculty in their own fashion celebrated their beliefs until classes were finally dismissed two days before Christmas. This was the first year that vacation started this late.

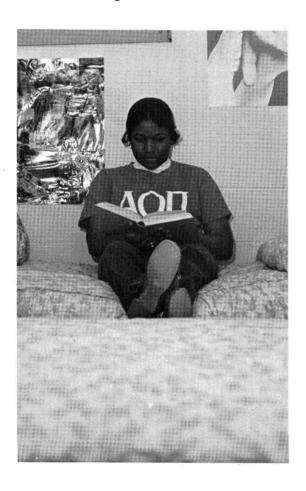

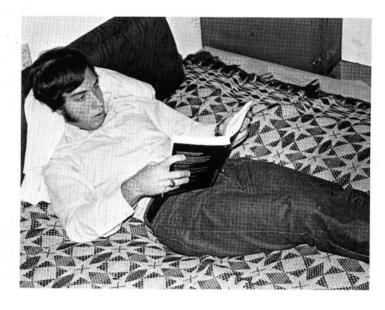

Life in the dormitory community is potentially one of the most stimulating social experiences that the student is exposed to. However, it too often becomes a treacherous escape into pseudosecurity and four years of malignant non-life.

Camouflaged behind any successful performance, be it musical or dramatic, are long, exasperating rehersals and a dedicated director who must have the talent to extract and compile every ounce of enthusiasm and ability from his performers.

As Man of La Mancha unfolded one could see that the spirit of Don Quixote is the only hope of man in a world soured in a soup of realism.

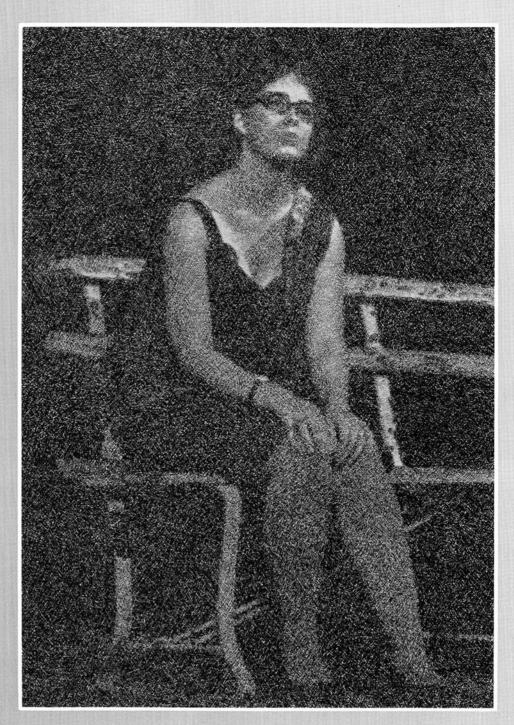

In late October the Theater Department presented Murray Schisgal's play entitled "Luv". Using a limited number of characters, the play moralisticly symbolized the consequences of approaching an old time friend with reverse ulterior motives in mind. As the play progressed, new loves were found, discarded, destroyed, and discovered again. Infatuation versus love, turning points in life, and selfishness were the apparent conflicts which Schisgalused to create this enjoyable and humorus play.

Vincent Price's resounding oratory gave an insight into his feelings of being an infamous antagonist, and spiced the subject with a measure of humorous philosophy.

A professor must have a distinct, yet flexible character.

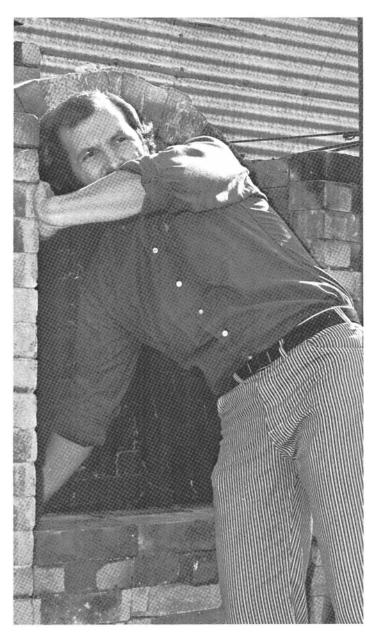

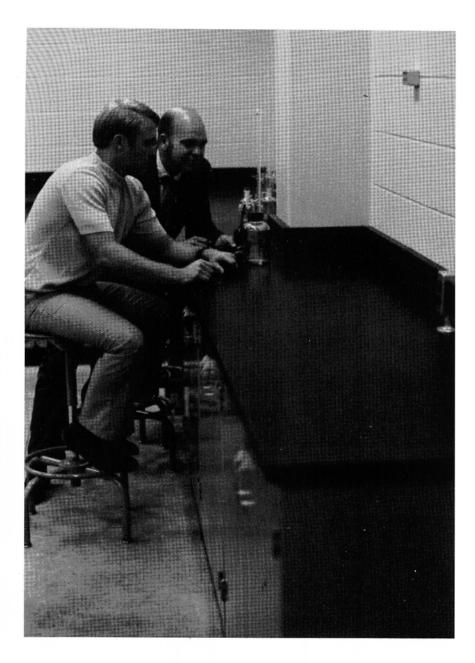

Besides the rigorous academic requirements a special talent for communication is a necessity.

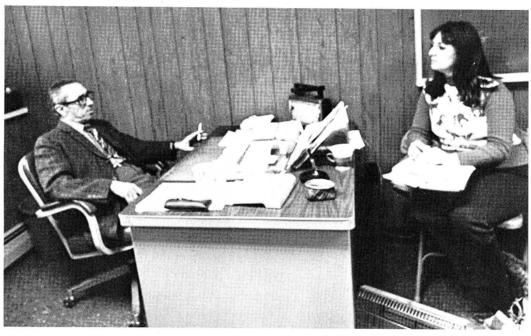

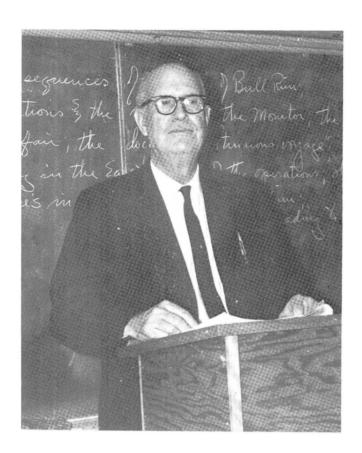

Though a worn out Cliché, communication encompasses all that must be forwarded to the student, from creating an interest to the satisfaction of his questions.

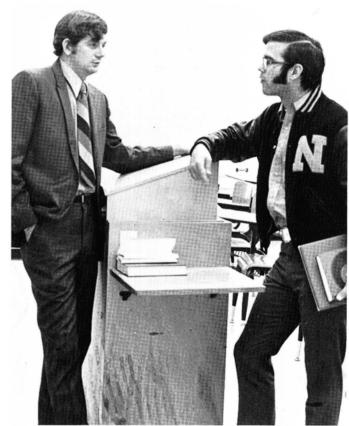

Communication is difficult to establish and, of course, can exist only with two cooperating parties.

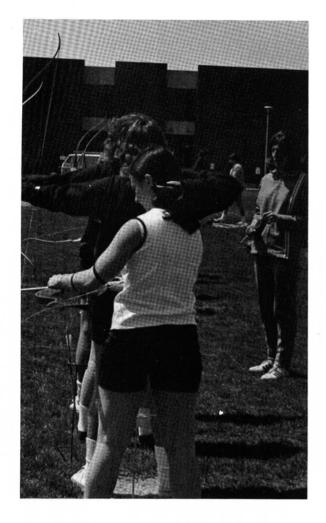

The dogmatic lecture has and always will fail, since a student makes use of little more than one percent of what is presented to him in four years.

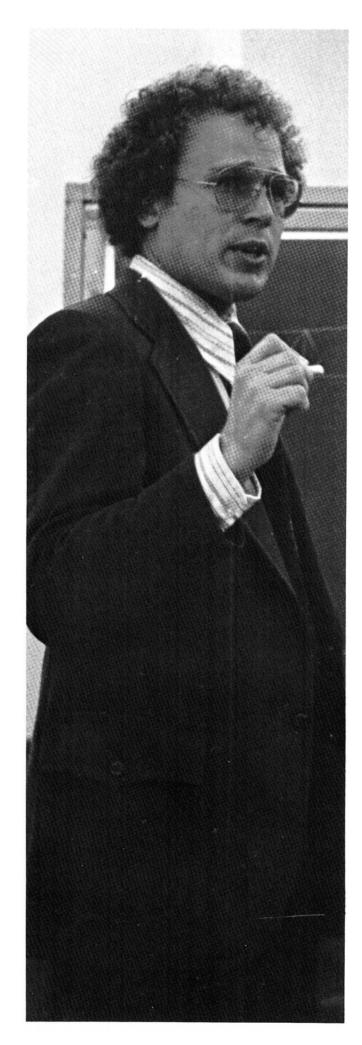

An open-minded approach is more desireable.

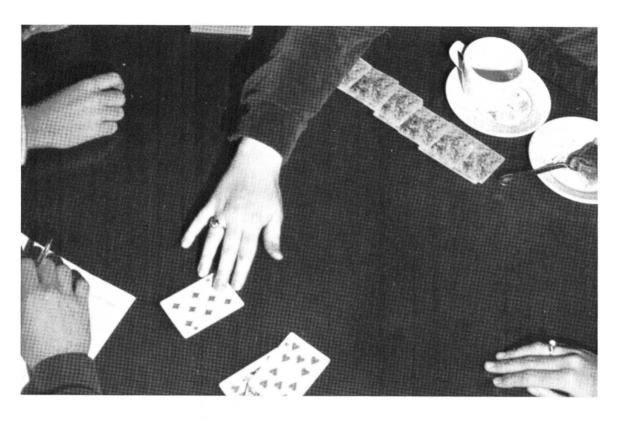

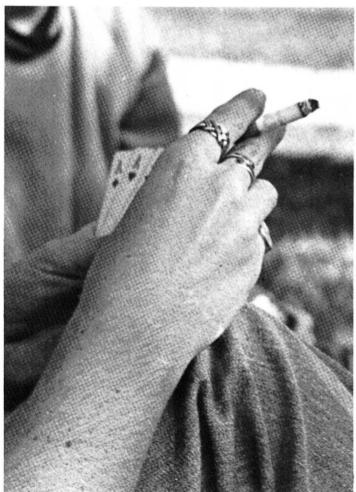

A professor, flexible ... talented ... relevant ... open-minded. No wonder few meet the full criteria; only a small minority of students do.

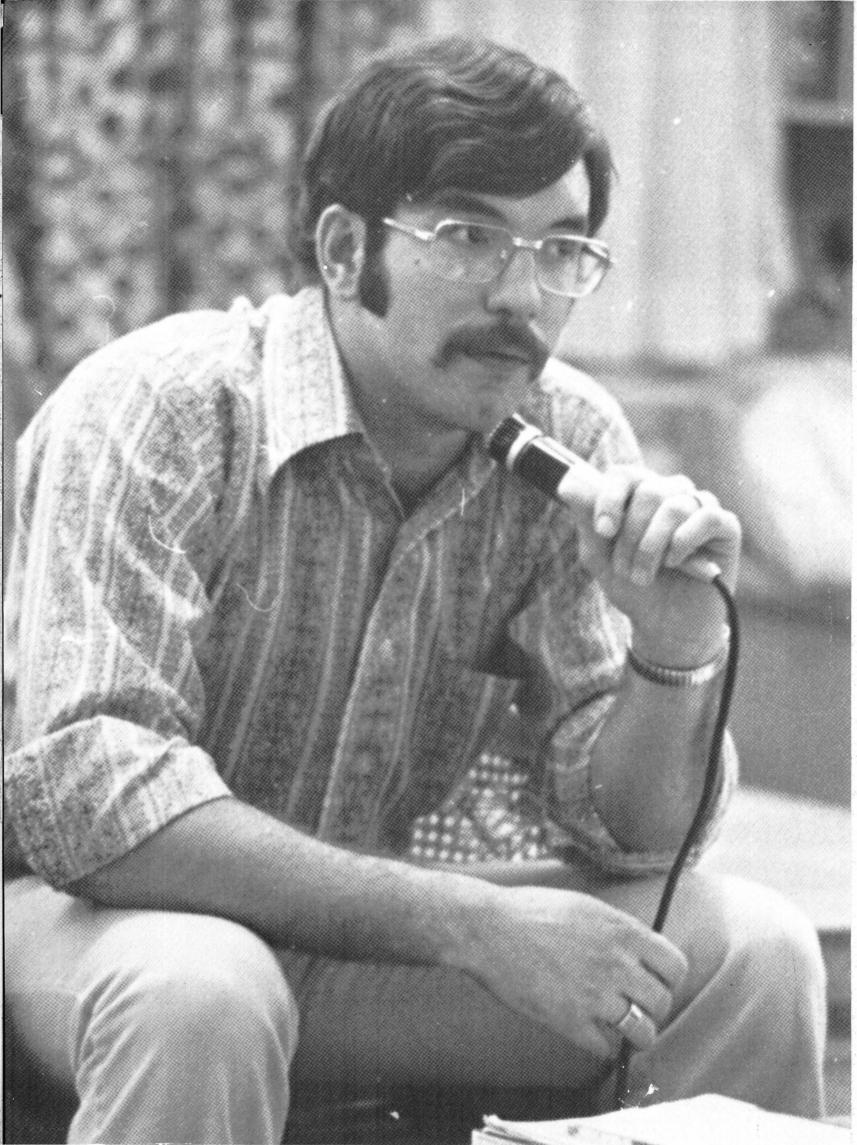

One must at times step outside the bounds of professionalism in order to gain a longer lasting and more effective human contact.

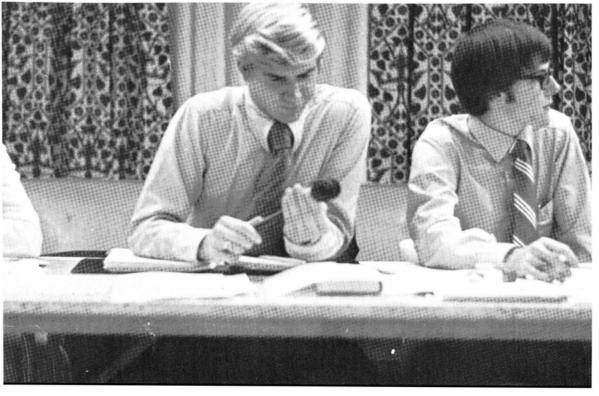

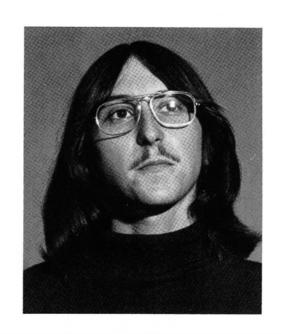

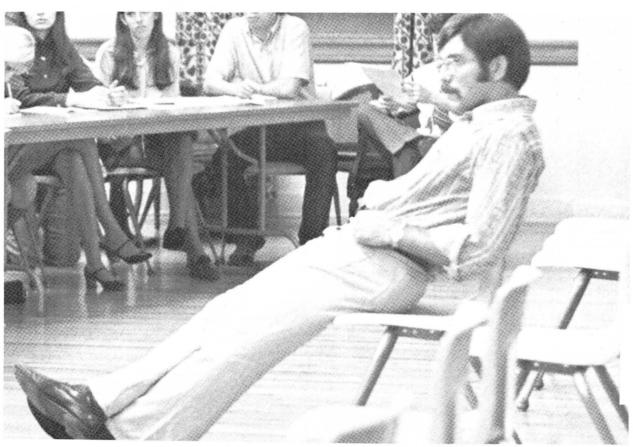

As most organizations will proclaim, their purposes are both academic and cooperative. And it is true that they exist in an attempt to attain close cooperation between members, professionalism, leadership, and pride. Whether the organizations are honorary fraternities, campus organizations, or professional groups, they strive toward their ideals with admirable fidelity. Anticipation and confidence are the driving forces which maintain these groups, thus keeping extra pathways to "outside education" alive.

For some it was home away from home for only a year. But for most it has been evolved into a four or five year homefront. Those with hope and foresight have made the best of what was available and have learned to love it. For the other side of the road, they have formed a night mare of barred windows and confining limitations. But then again, they could have done this anywhere.

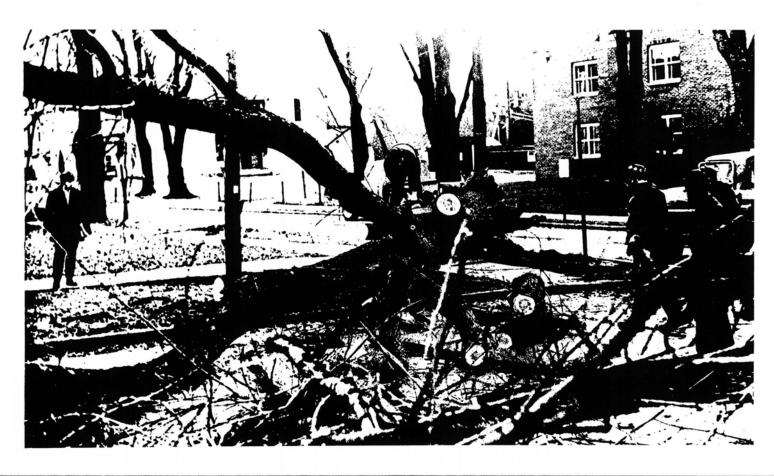

If after five minutes in Ada, you are still not convinced this is a small farm township, the grainery is a dead give away, or the contrast between student and 'townie' hangouts.

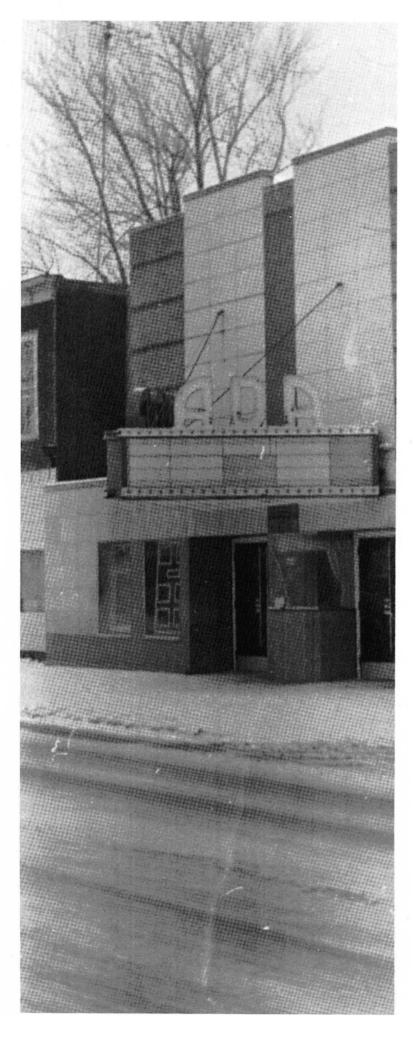

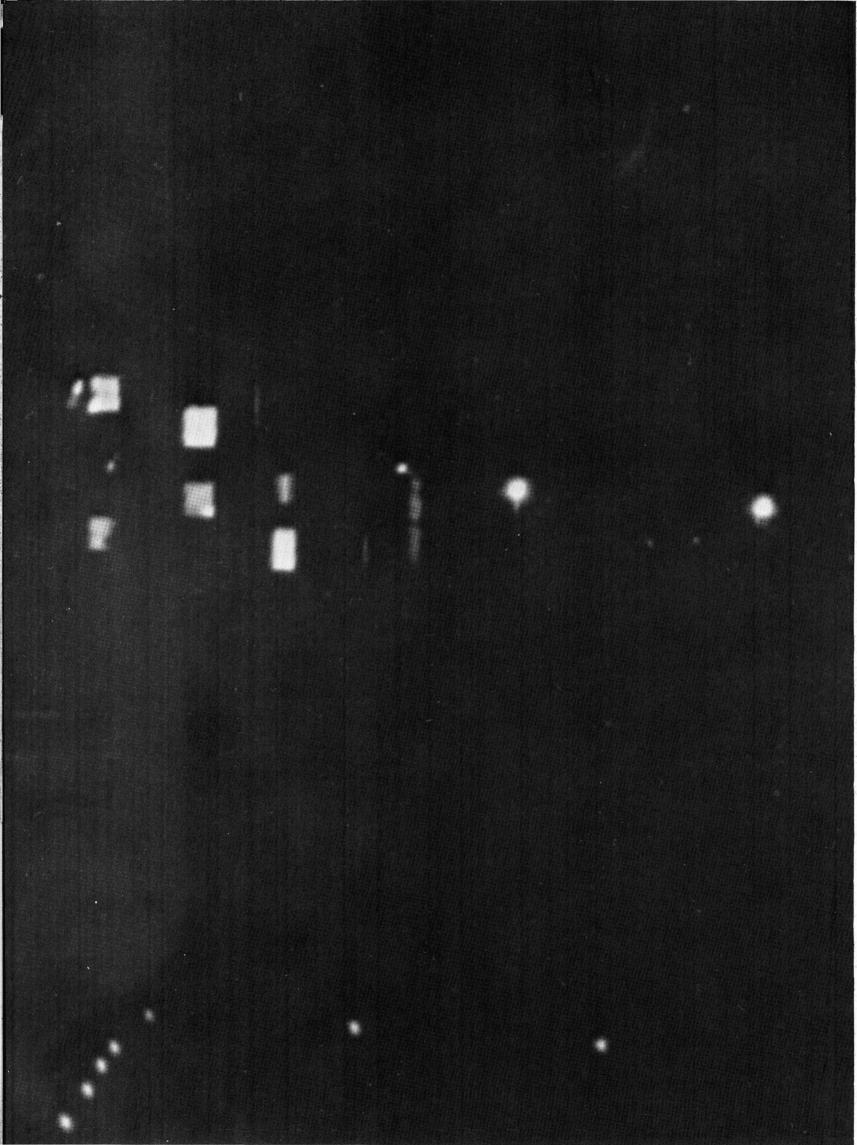

People used to think that the most exciting thing to do in Ada was to watch the train arrive on Friday afternoon. Then watching plants grow overshadowed this regular attraction, and today the railroad station is being converted into a museum.

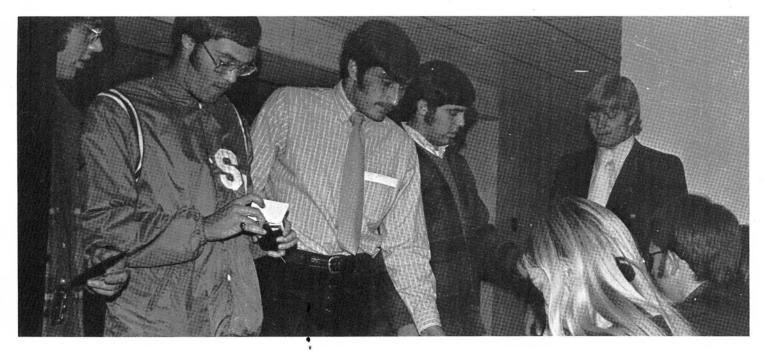

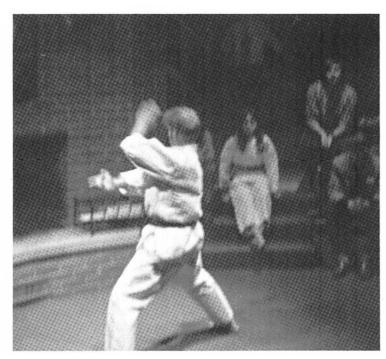

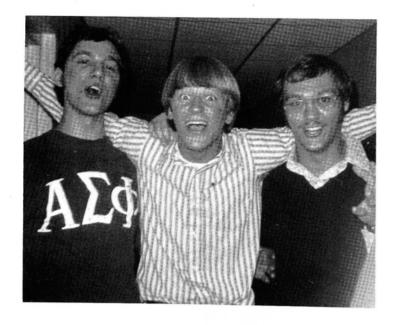

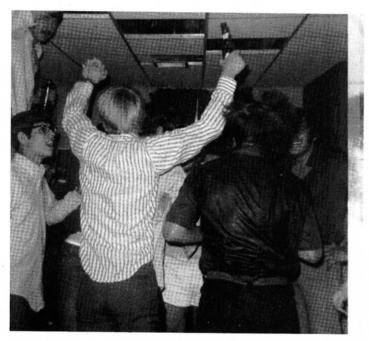

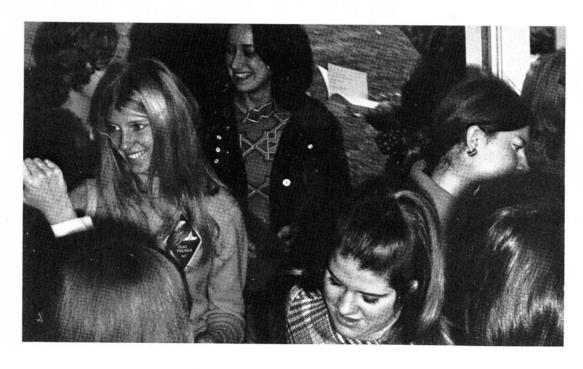

The Greek smokers and rush parties begin and for the remainder of the quarter, your spare time becomes instantly planned and occuppied.

Formals are a time to bring out the ambassador stripes, swim suits, formal favors, and good manners in an attempt to impress that one special girl.

When house parties happen, success stories emerge, along with hangovers, bumps and bruises, and only vague recollections of the previous evening's events. With luck, the better house parties turn into . . .

Creek life

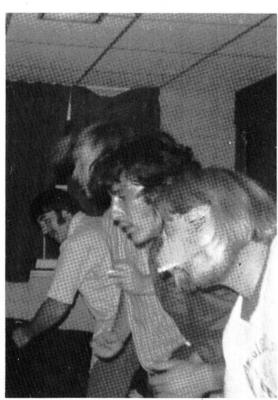

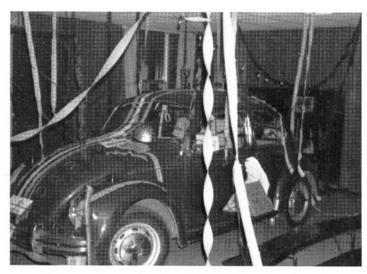

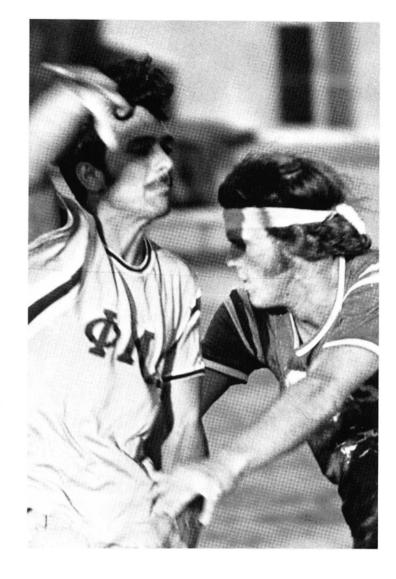

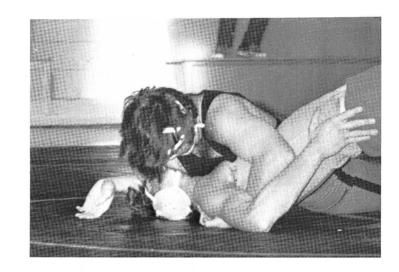

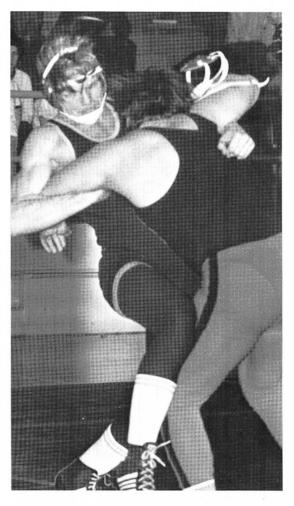

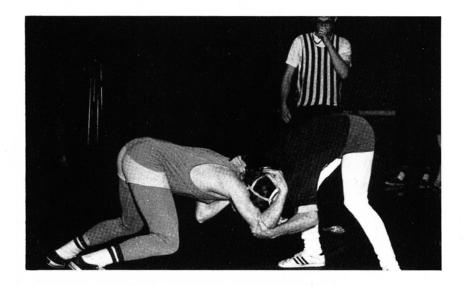

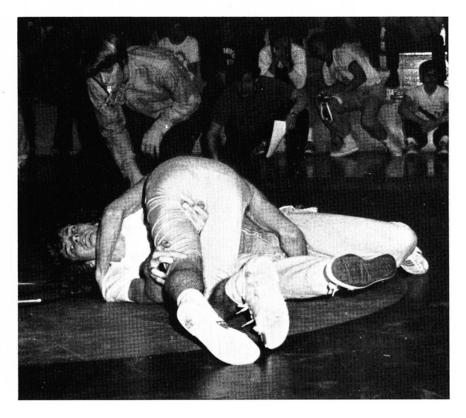

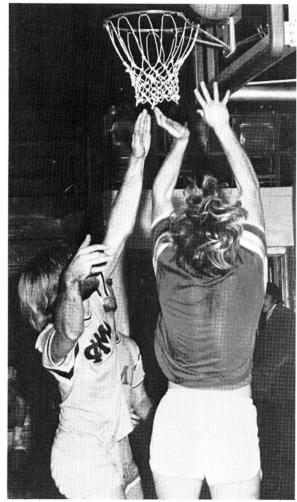

Greek sports often carry with them more enthusiasm and excitement than varsity sports; not only with spectators but also participants.

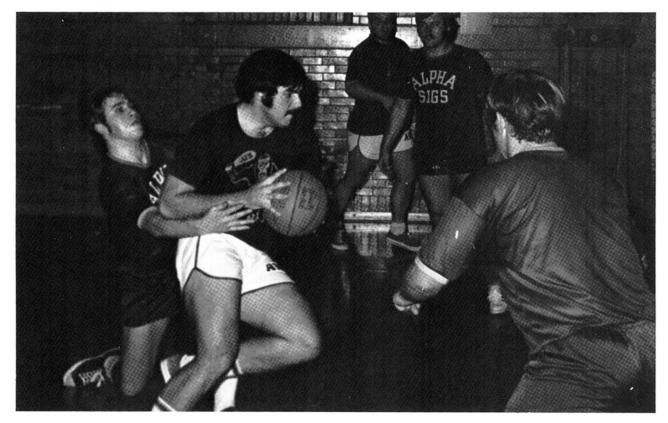

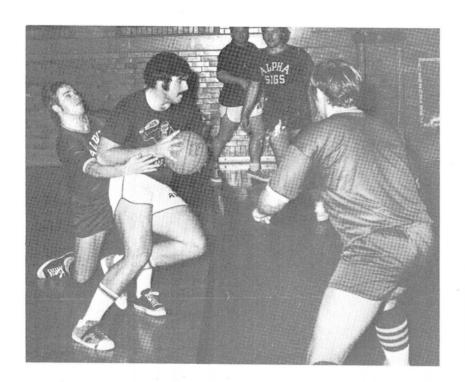

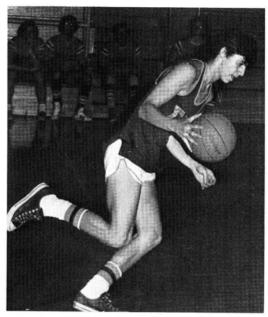

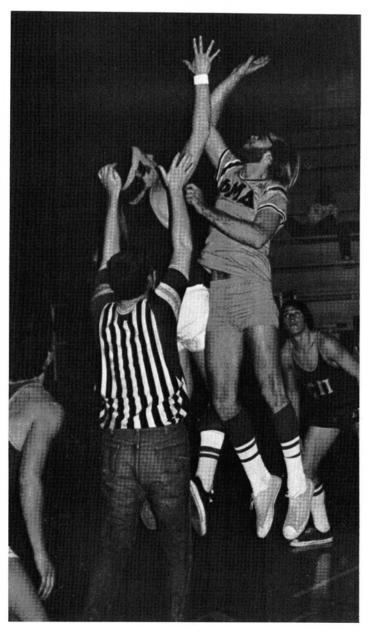

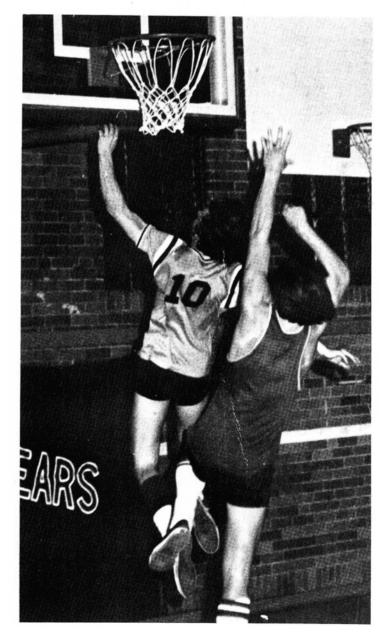

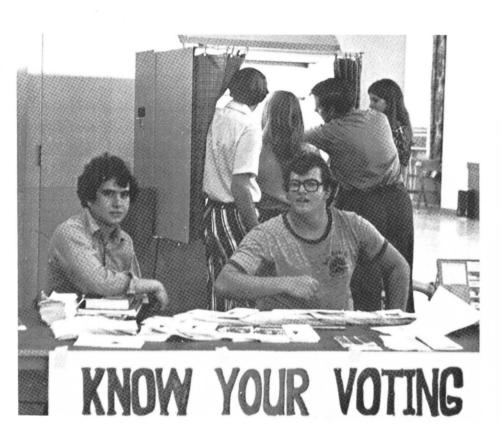

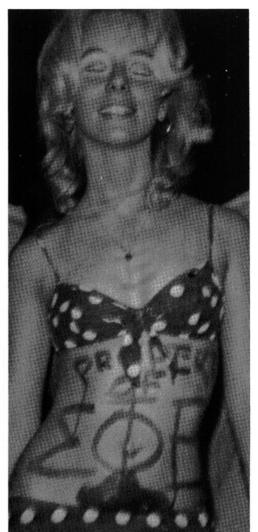

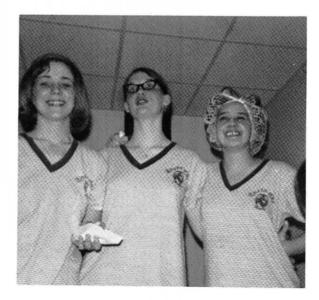

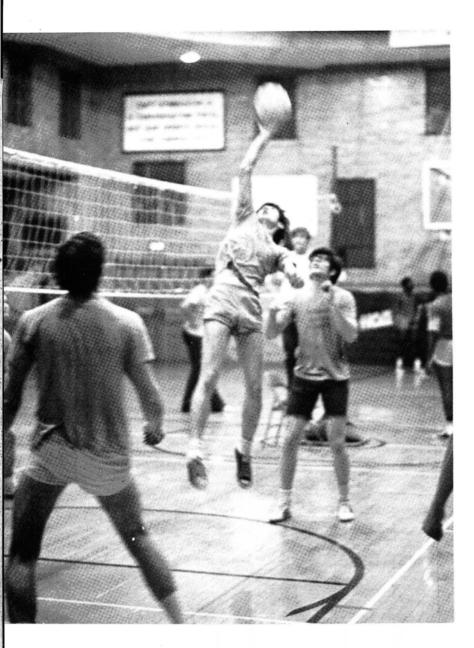

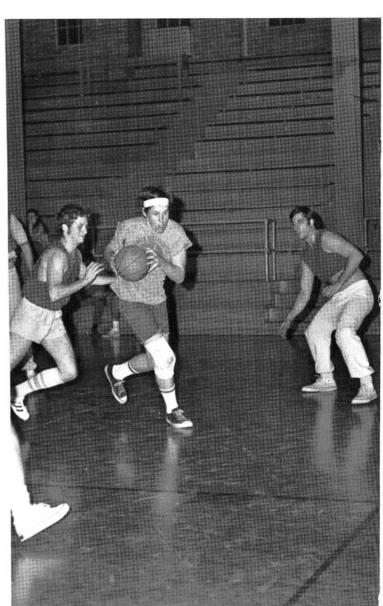

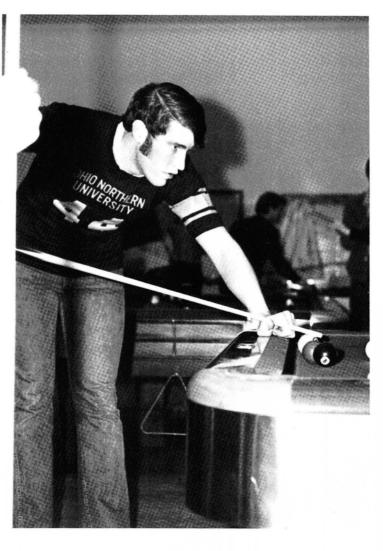

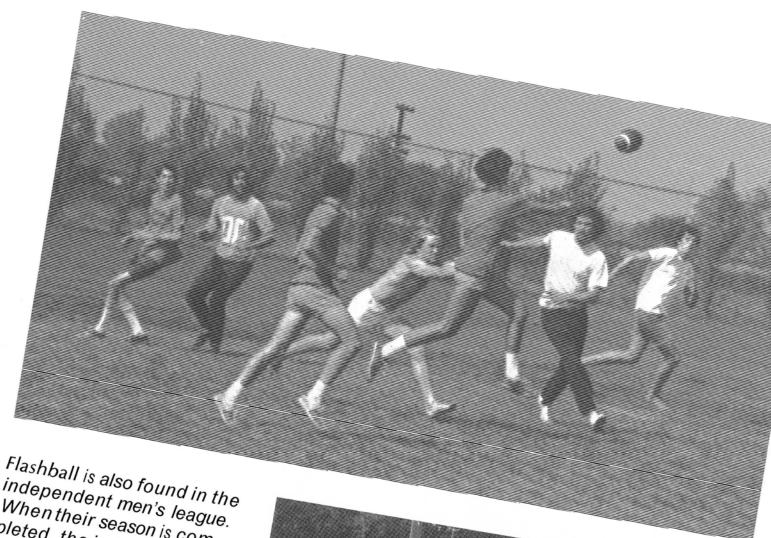

Whether it be basketball, wrestling, or any of the other various indoor sports, it all points to good competition, spirit, and sportsmanship.

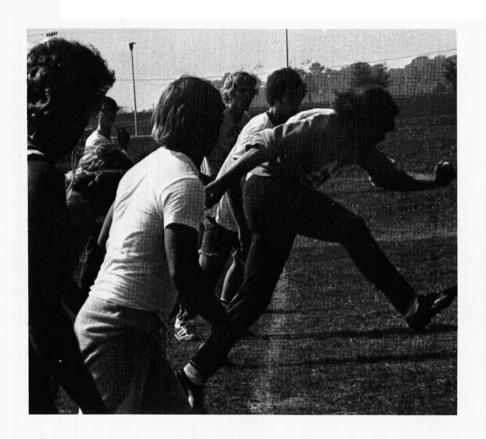

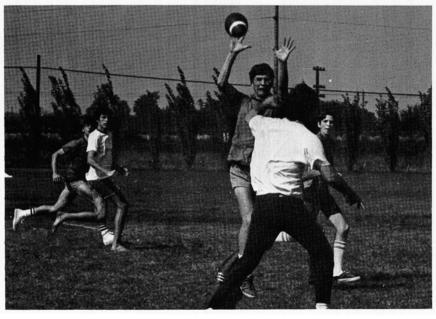

Flashball is also found in the independent men's league. When their season is completed, the independent champ usually challenges the Flash Bowl.

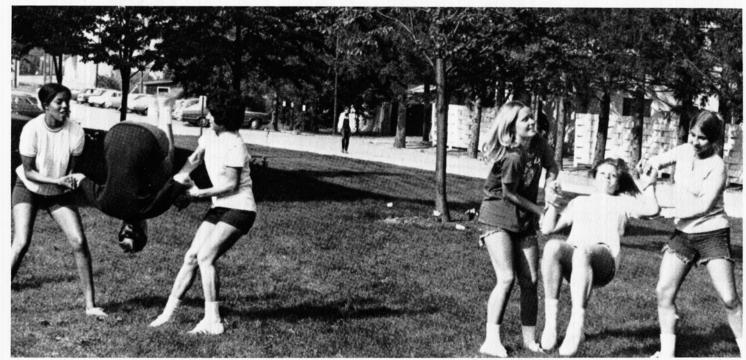

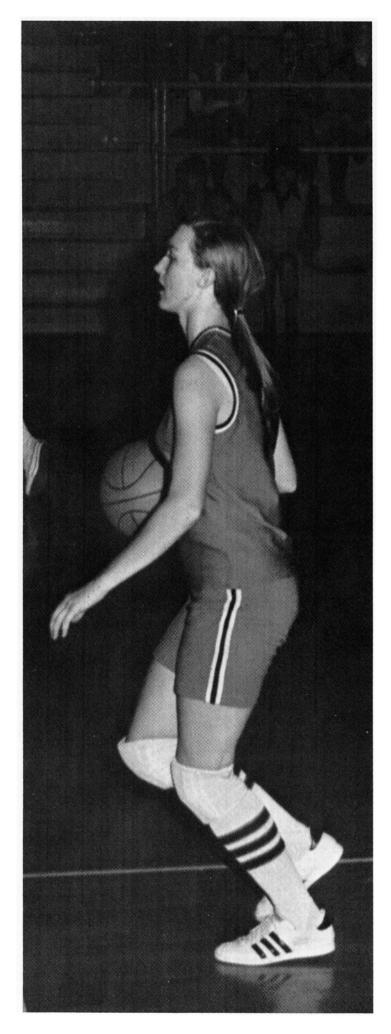

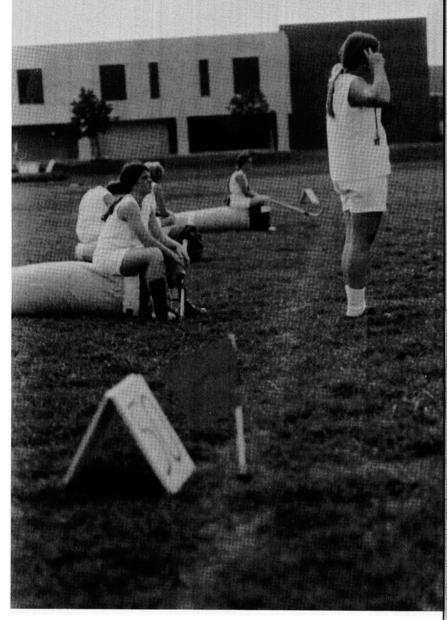

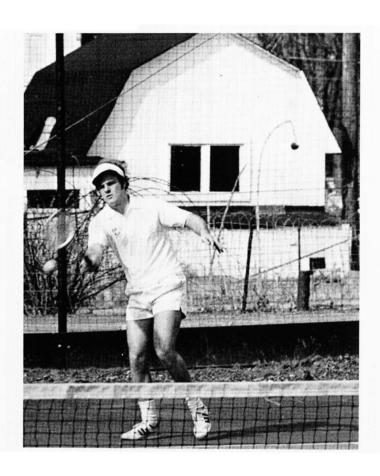

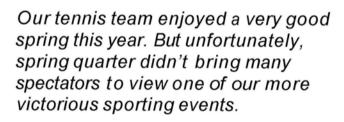

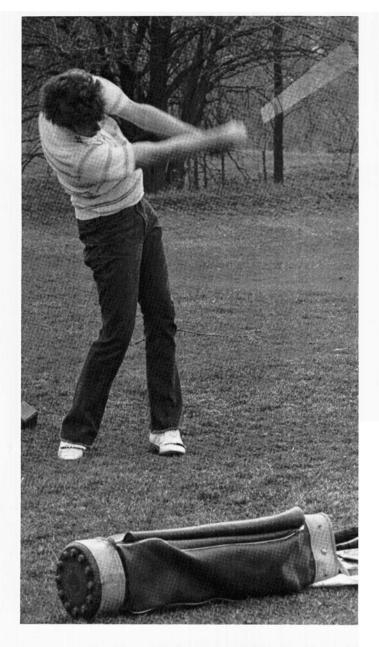

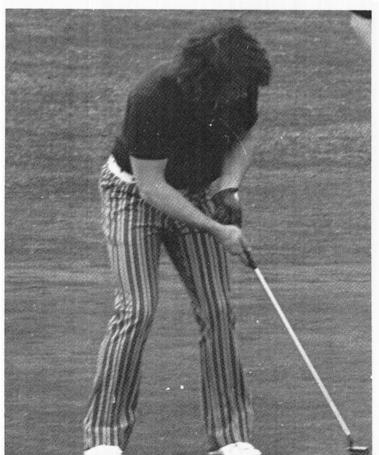

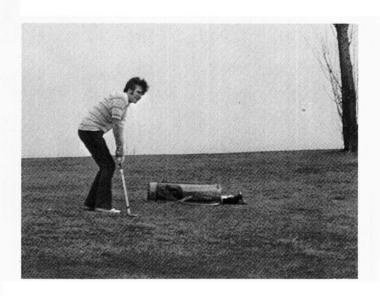

This year's team enjoyed considerable success on the links, despite the excessive winds and rain. Remember their names, they might be famous someday!

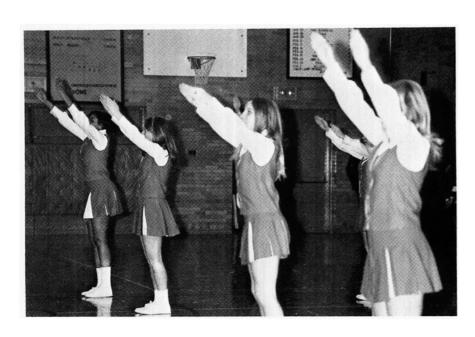

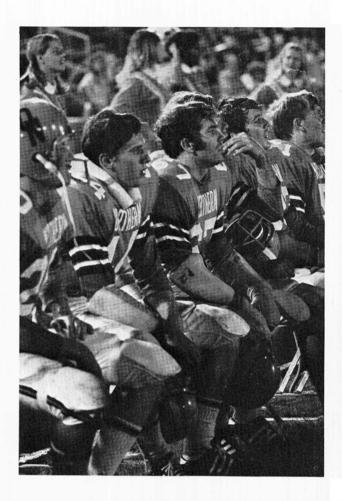

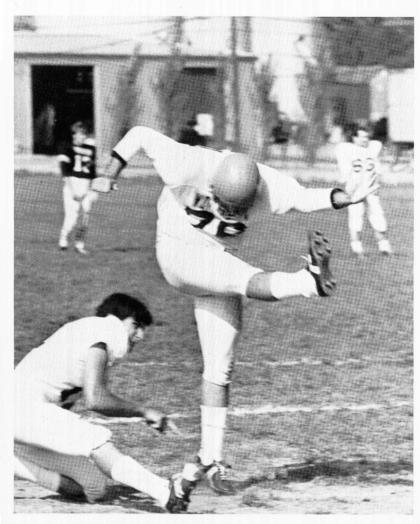

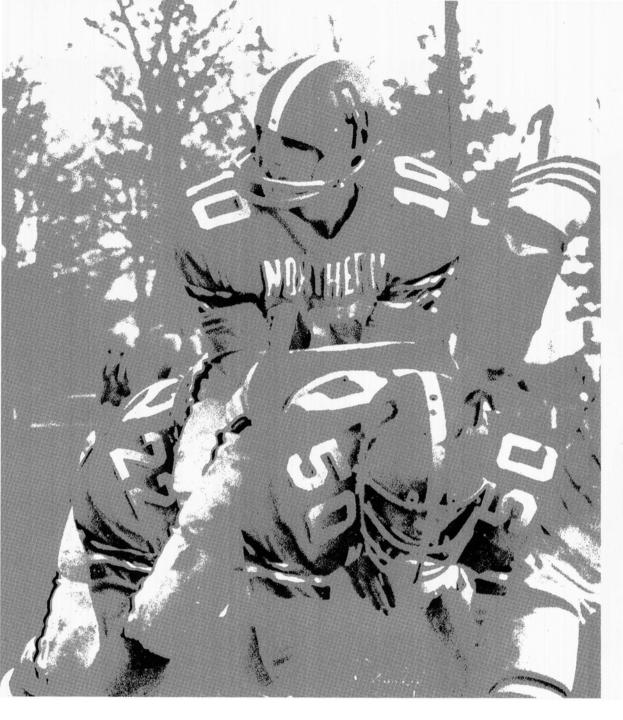

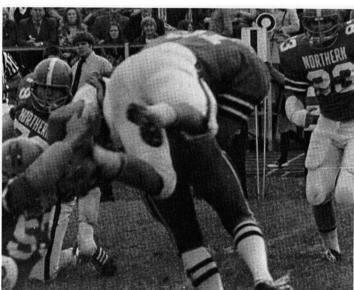

These are the girls with a cause, and a problem. The cause, to extract enthusiasm from the loyal followers of our athletic teams. The problem, most of the teams lack the support of these followers because they don't care to support THEIR teams.

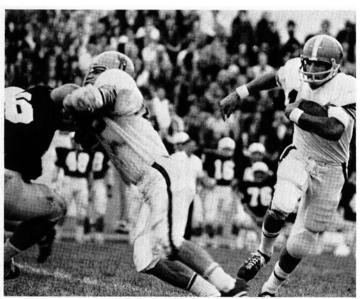

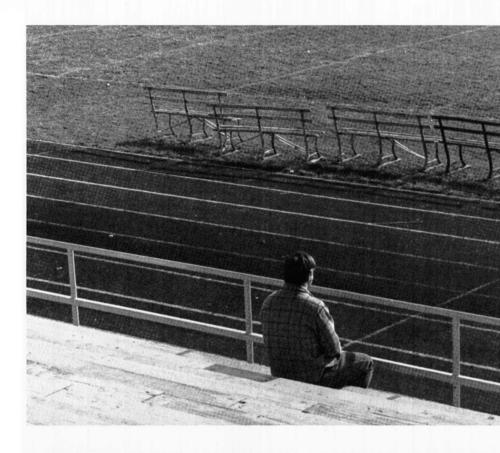

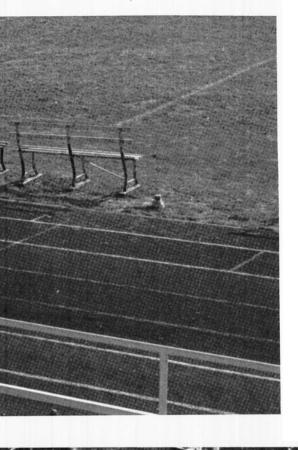

There was much discussion at the beginning of the year concerning the capabilities of the squad. Speculation of a great and memorable football season did not seem as remote a dream as it might have been in previous years.

Some of the steam was lost from the over-inflated balloon after the team suffered it's first setback of the season in it's initial outing against Capitol. Mistakes were costly for the Bears, enough so that all the team could bring home to their supporters was an 0-7 record.

Their next outing was at home, and with a great deal of self-confidence and pride, ONU came out on the victorious end of a hard fought game.

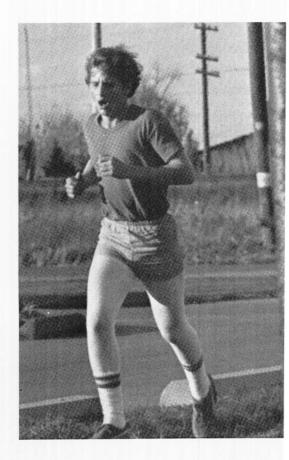

Just as things were beginning to look much brighter for the Bears, the inevitable happened. A tailspin of five humiliating defeats strung back to back echoed the key words responsible for such a poor showing, more mistakes.

Two games remained for the failing Bears, the last chances for many seniors to show their worth. Unwilling to give up the cause, the team put everything together and ended another disappointing season with two last victories.

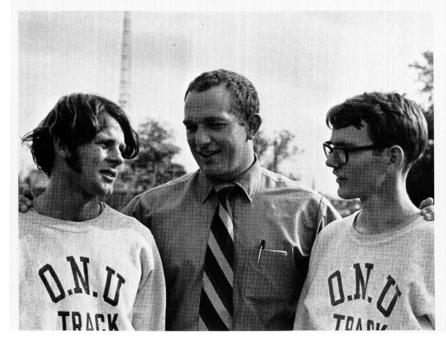

Next fall? Will there be speculation and high hopes? Maybe.

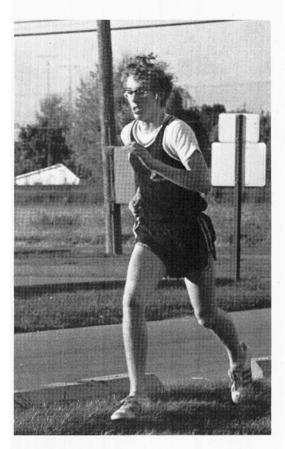

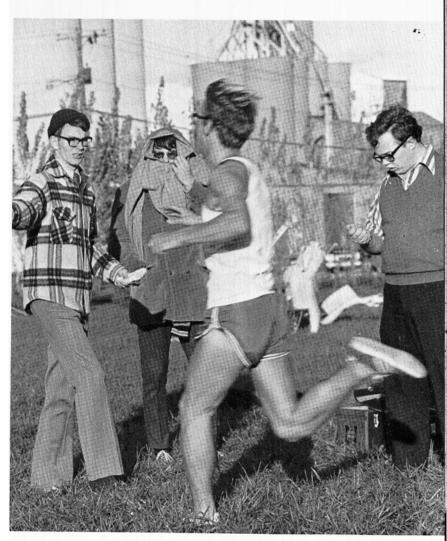

Cross Country is a sport which literally has its "upsand downs". Being a non-spectator sport, it is our most unheralded sporting event. Ada is partly to fault for this years poor record, however. Having few "ups" to run up, our runners had only one way to go!

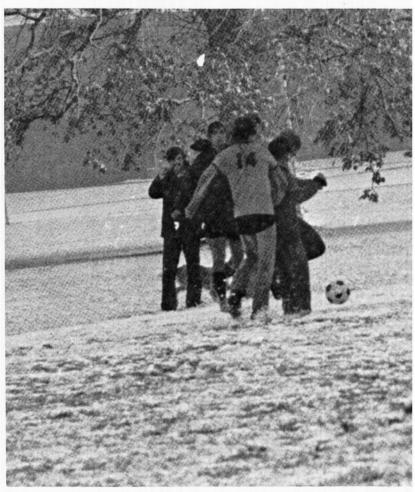

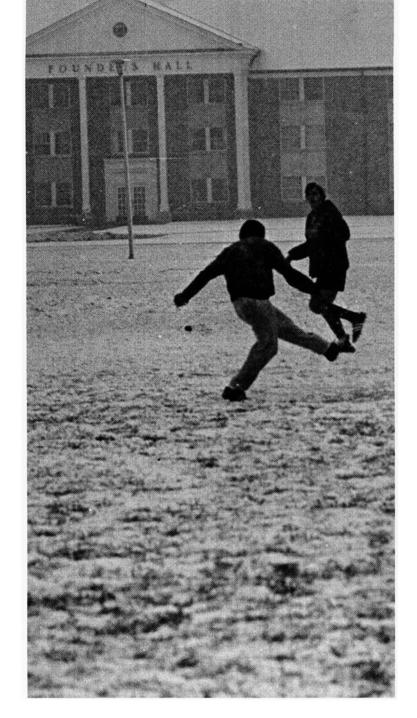

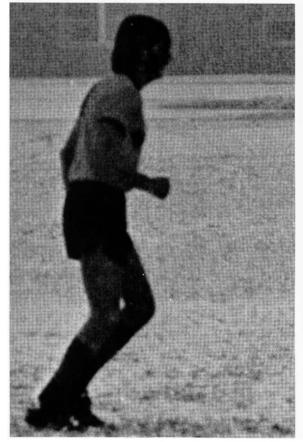

Although our soccer team is really a club and not a university sponsored team, one could never tell it by watching one of their matches. These men have a far reaching dream, to one day become a university sponsored sport.

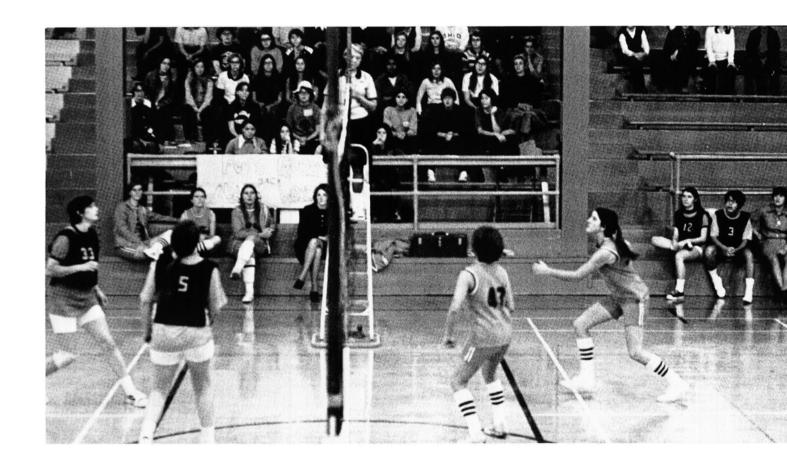

Through rigorous training and by scheduling games with better than average teams, the soccer team has gained valuable incentive and experience. These qualities are the basic necessities required of a real winner. Now is the time for us to sponsor a winner.

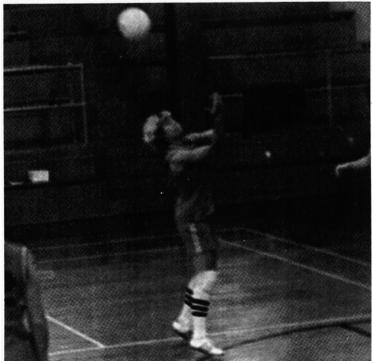

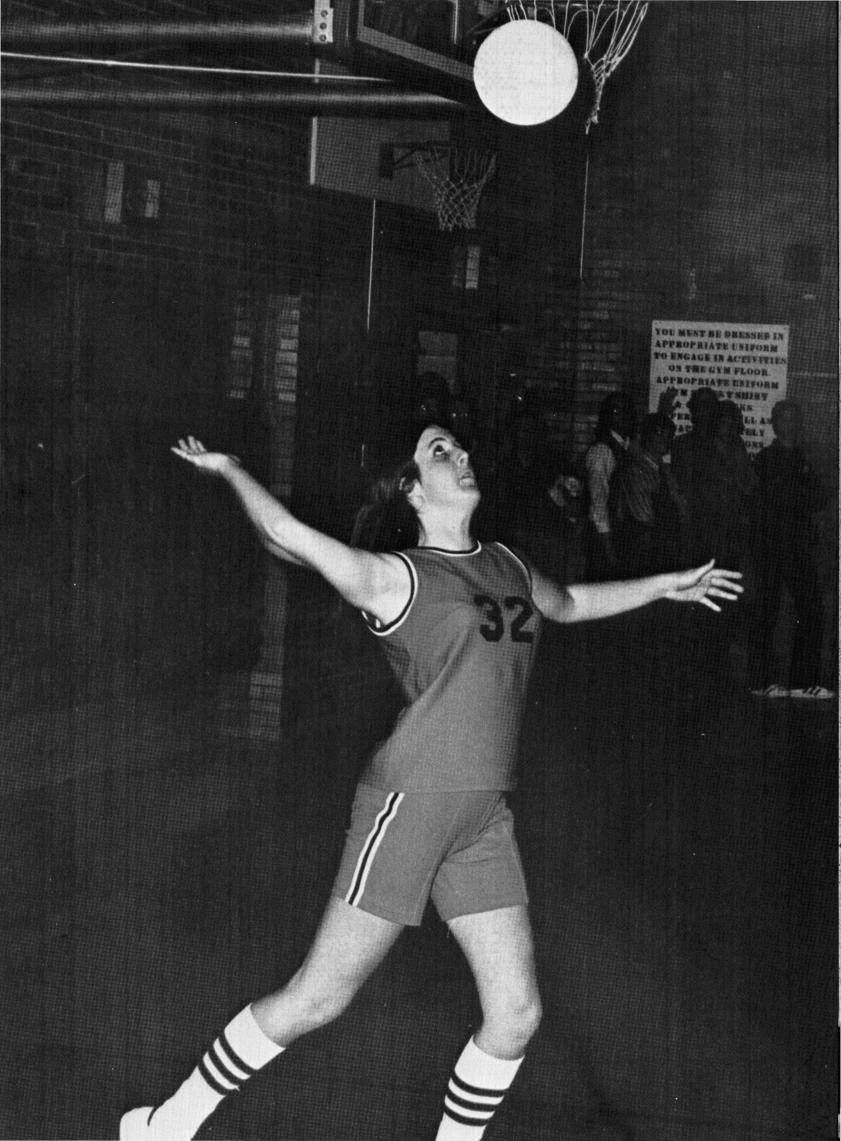

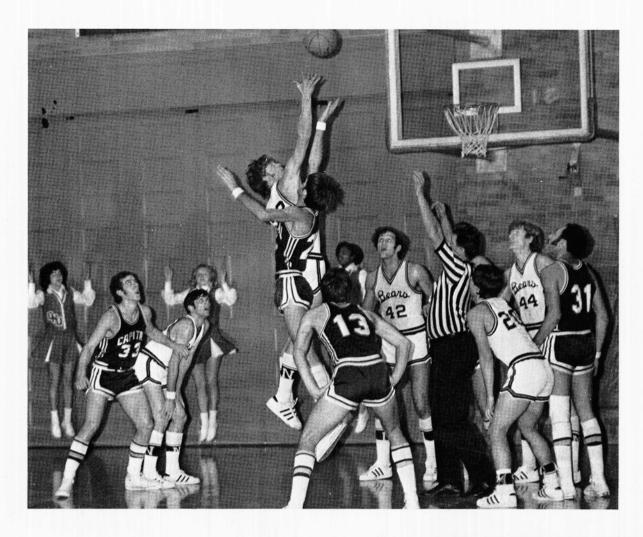

Believe it or not but there are lady jocks on this campus who love their sports as much as their male counterparts. And not only that, but they are damn good at it too.

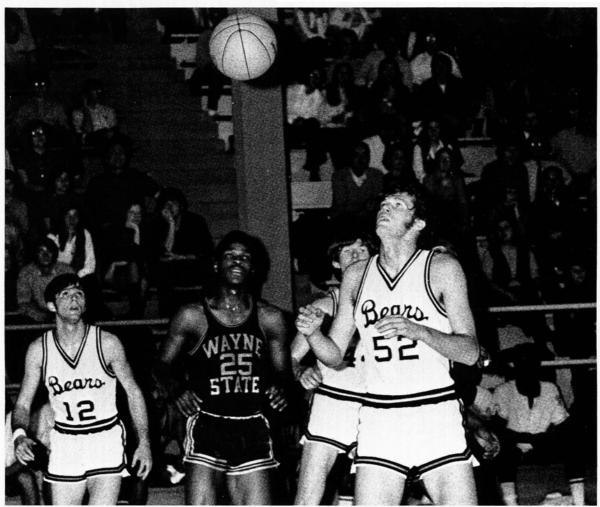

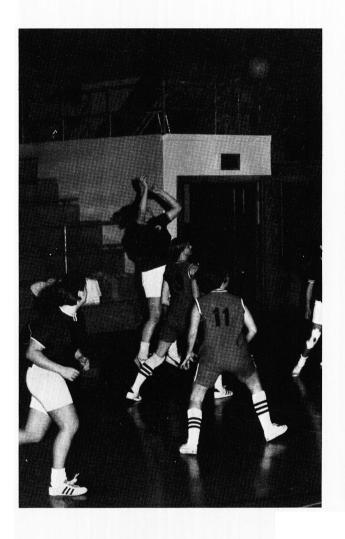

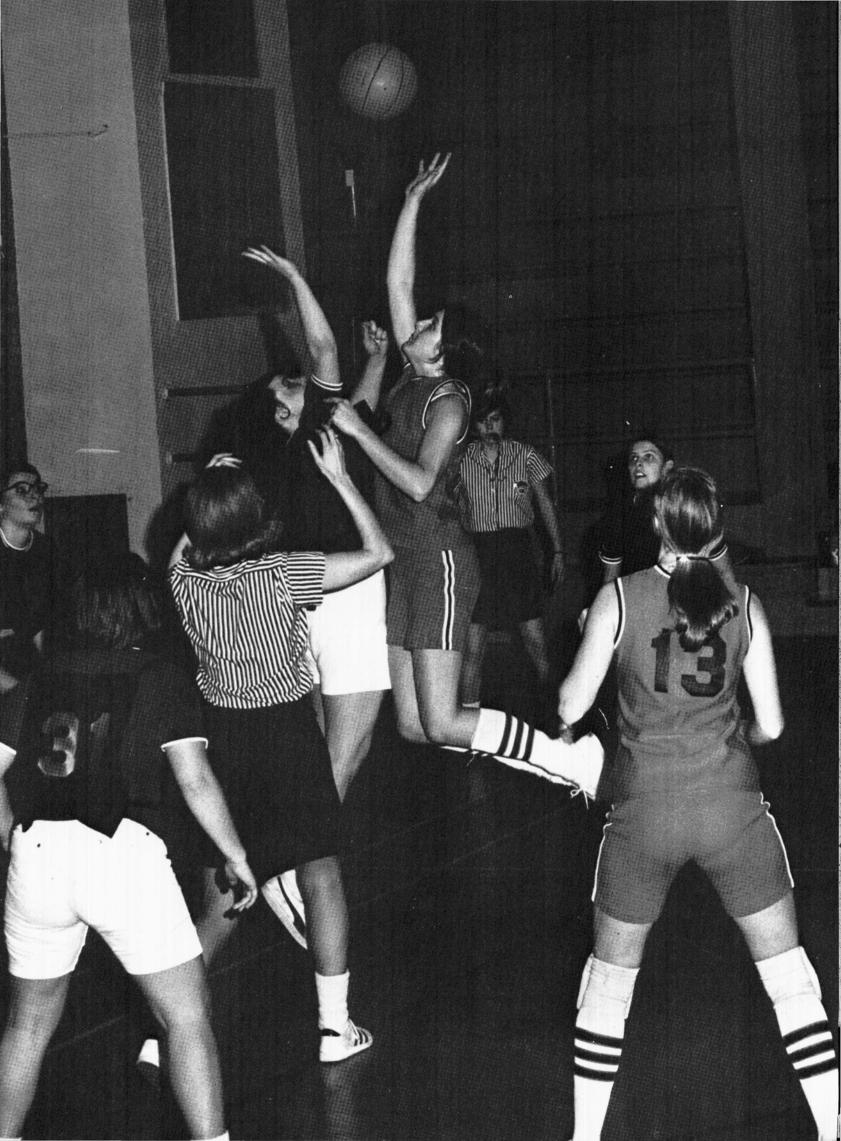

With an entire returning varsity squad, hopes for an impressive winning season ran high this year. The home court seemed to be just a little more advantageous than the away games though, and our cagemen could only manage a .500 season. One good point was born this year, that being the very valuable experience gained from competing against many high caliber opponents.

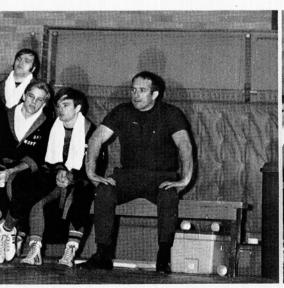

Another of the ladyjock's favorites is basketball, and why not? You don't have to be six-six to be able to shoot a basketball.

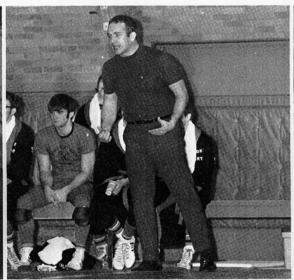

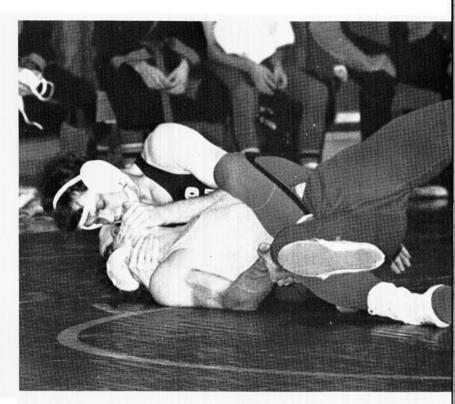

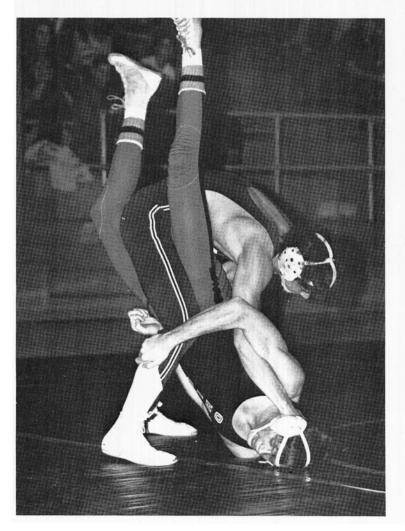

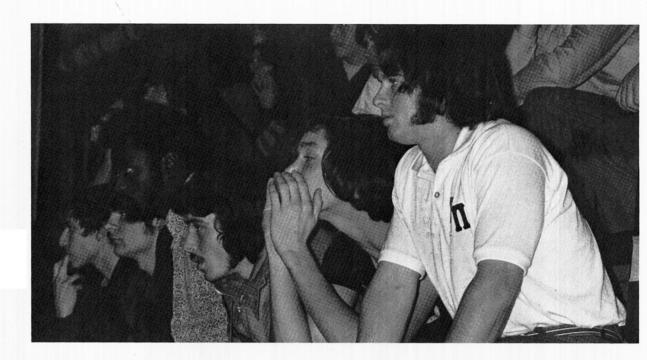

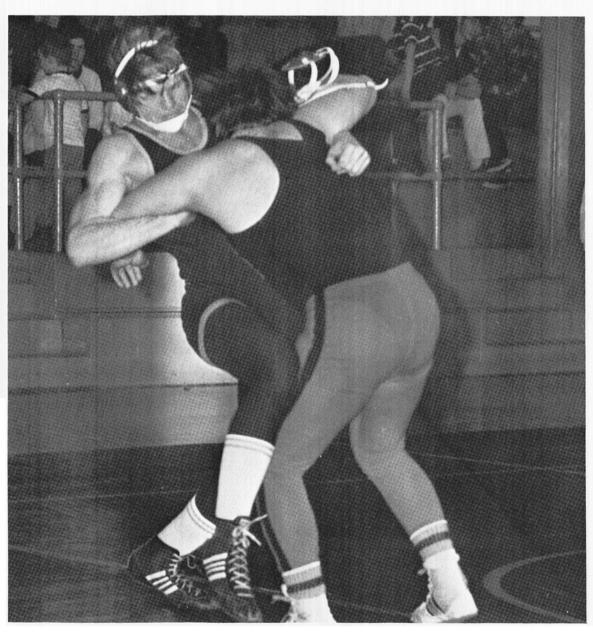

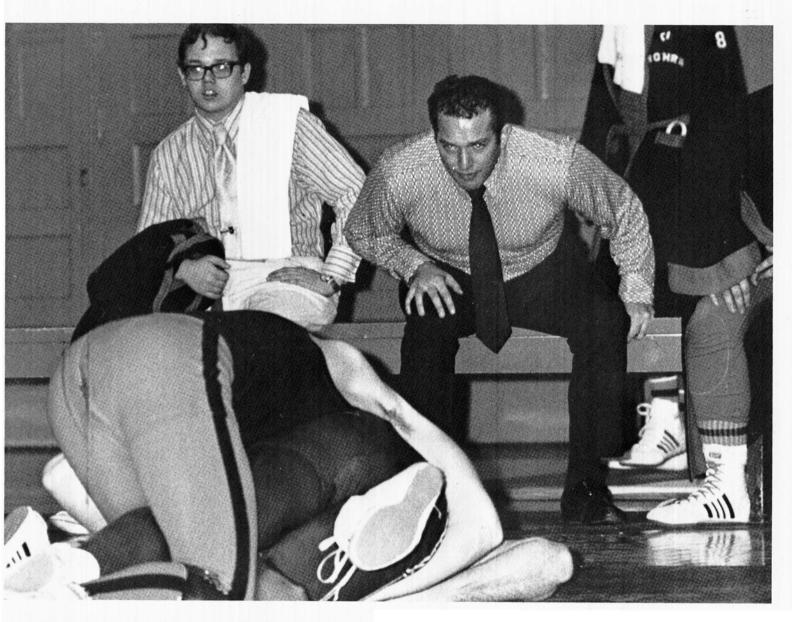

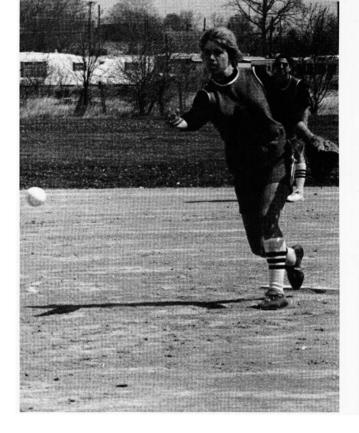

Breaking in a new coach is a job no team looks forward to. But breaking in an almost entirely new team is a job no new coach looks forward to either. Competing wih little else but a lot of guts, the "rookies" put together a fairly good year for their loyal supporters. ANDIAMO!

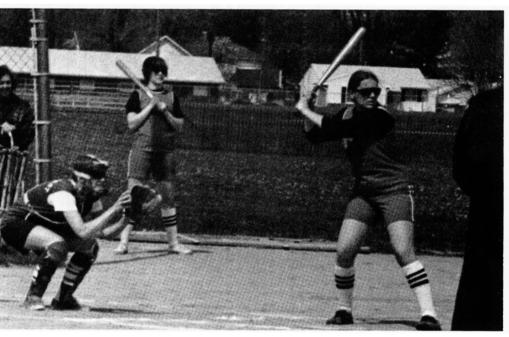

Another improving team this year has been the baseball squad. With high morale, and good ball playing, the team showed much improvement over last years results,

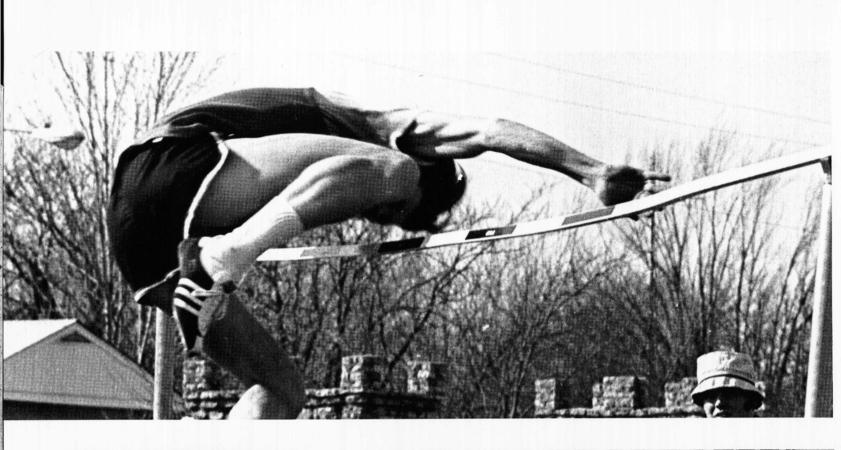

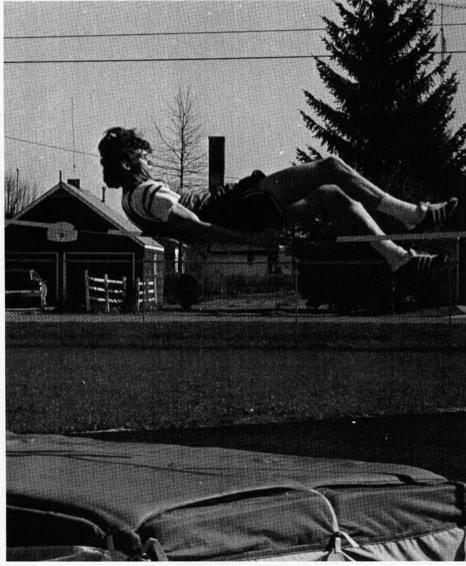

Probably the least recognized varsity squad and a team with one of the toughest schedules is the woman's softball team. They go up against large state schools such as Ohio State and Bowling Green and do outstandingly well.

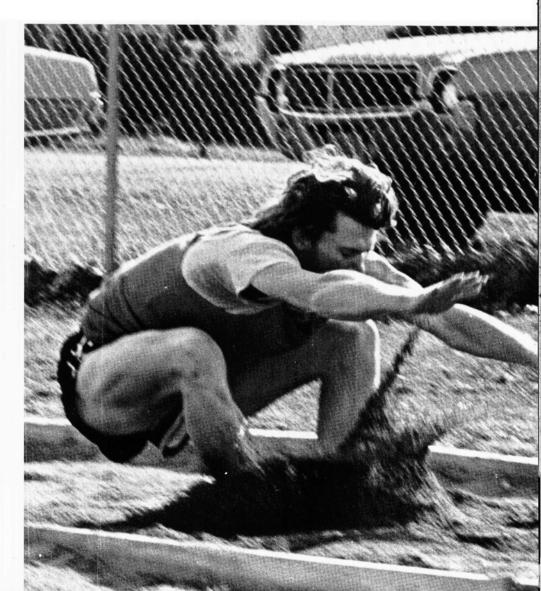

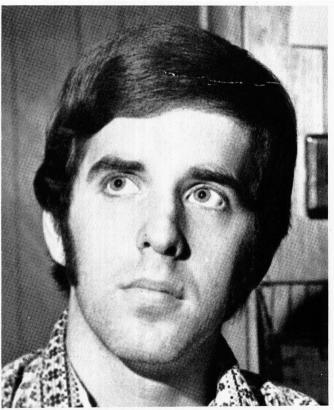

With a relatively new team to work with, Coach Johnson was pleased, but not satisfied with the year's showing. Next year should look good with this year's experience under their wings.

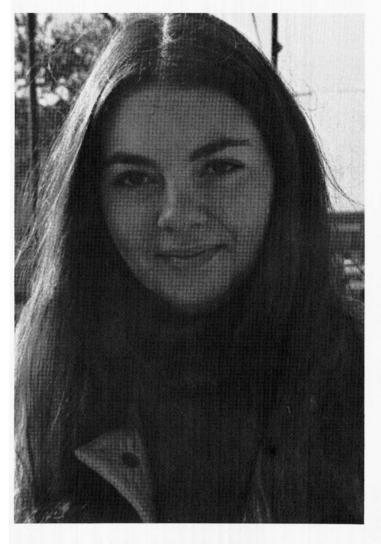

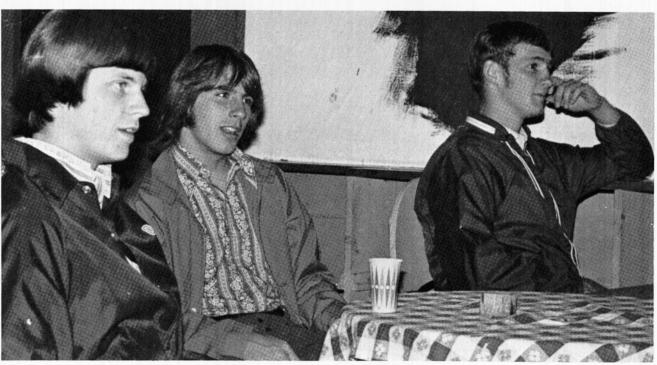

Buried beneath a face is a myriad of complex emotions, instincts, and compulsions . . . all that characterizes humaness.

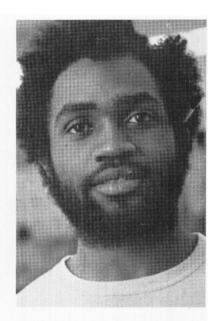

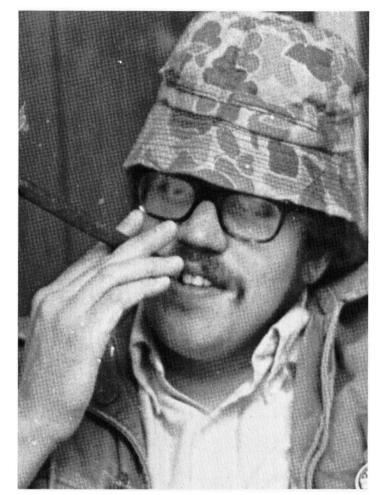

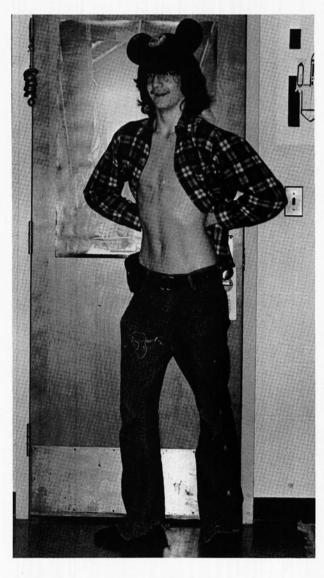

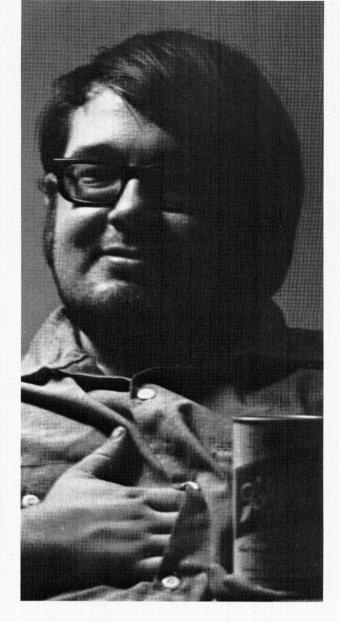

Despite the differences in ideology, life style, dress, and stereotypes, one element stands universal . . . humaness.

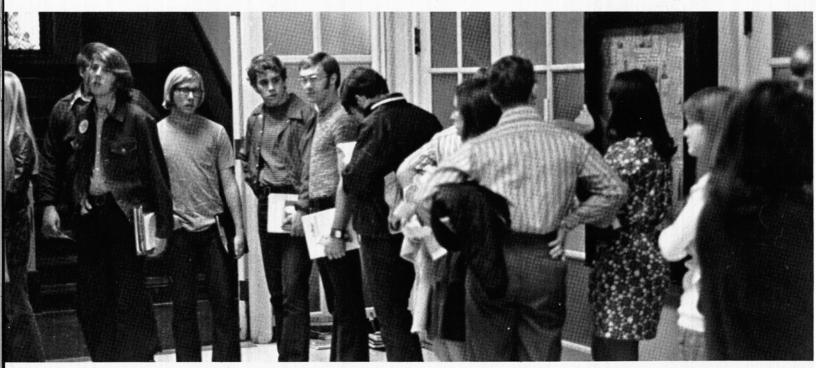

"Ohio Northern University . . . seeks to graduate students . . . inspired with a desire to contribute to a way of life that will result in a maximum of personal and social worth."

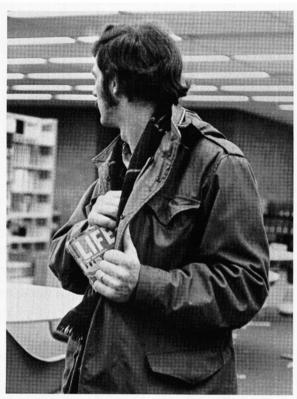

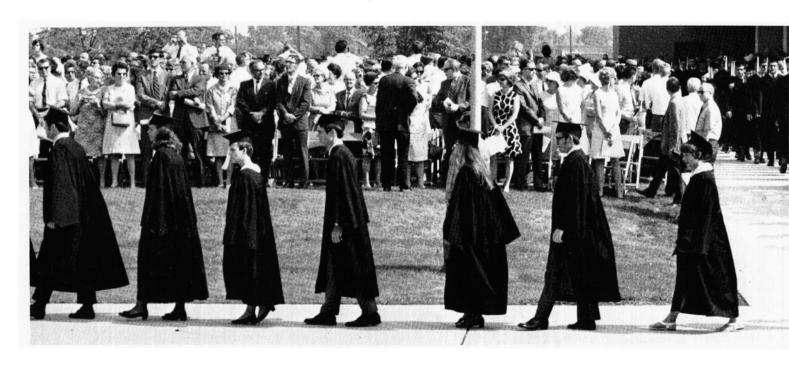

Beyond the scope of materialism lies the essence of this concept and the discovery of humaness . . . life . . . and the meaning of being a student, regardless of fallacies within the system.

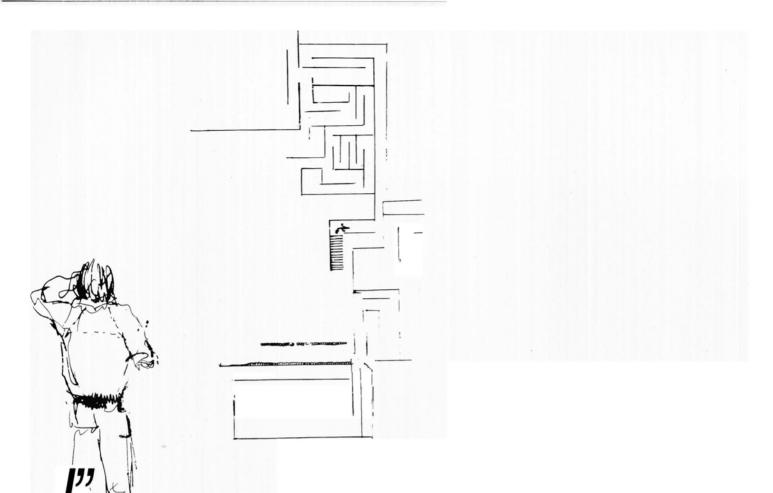

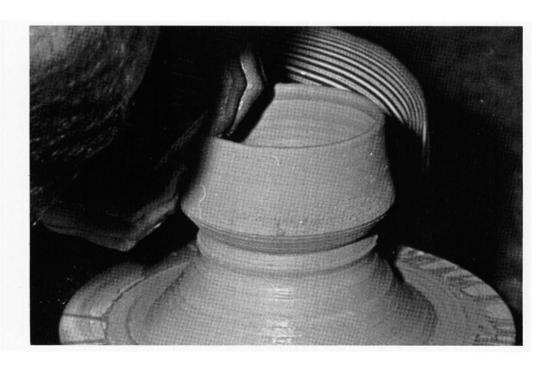

Now the goodbyes have all been said, and yesterday's memories are buried beneath today's Ionliness. The experience; one of breaking away, from a life that controlled your every move . . . into a new life, whose moves you will now master.

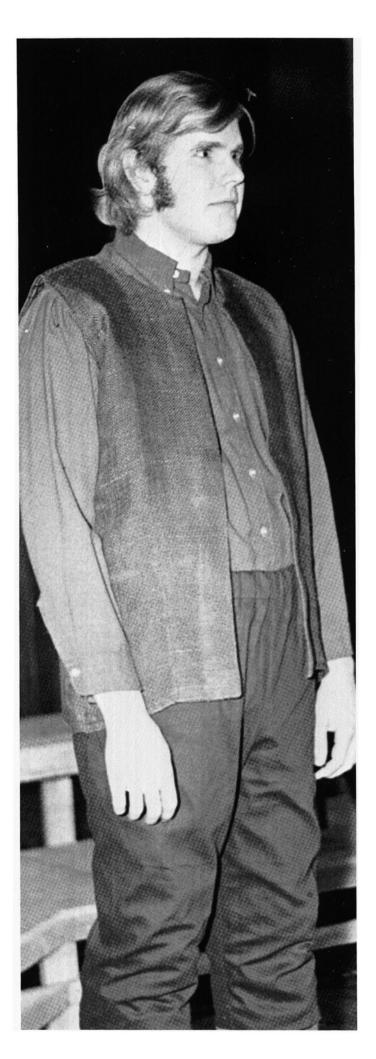

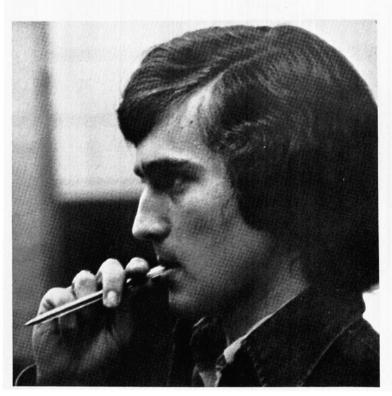

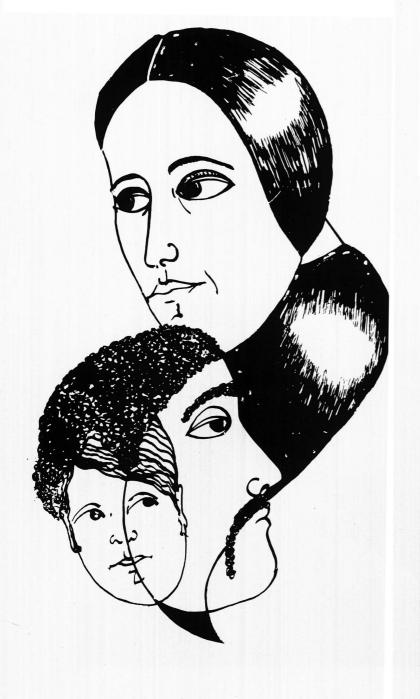

Campus sidewalks form a concrete maze, which, in time, you were blindly conditioned to follow. Blindly . . . conditioned.

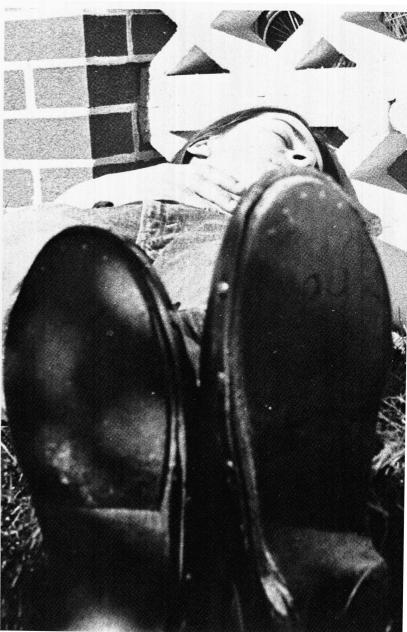

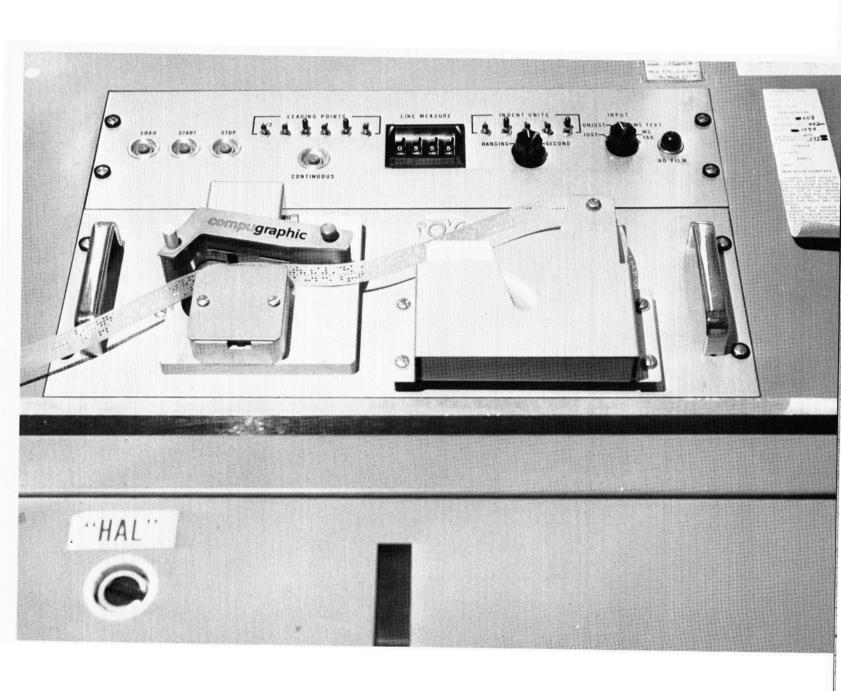

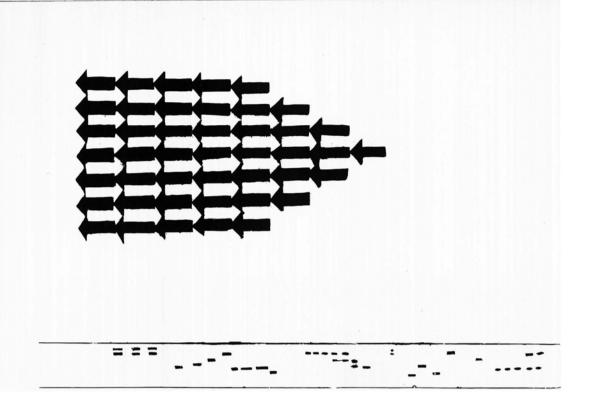

You gaze out ahead with a definite curiosity. You find yourself wondering, "Why am I here?"

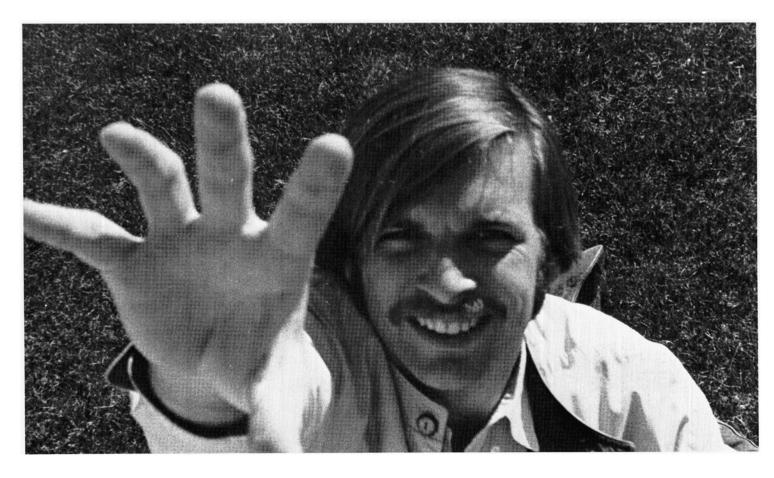

There is no one to call, no work that desperately needs to be finished, and no place special to go. Your mind almost looses it's purpose for functioning.

An inner instinct will lead you on to what may be your initial discovery. You will learn to depend on this special instinct, because now is a time when you have no other knowledge of your surroundings to fall back upon.

You will put a great deal of trust in it. It may be the determining factor in choosing which pathway of the maze to follow.

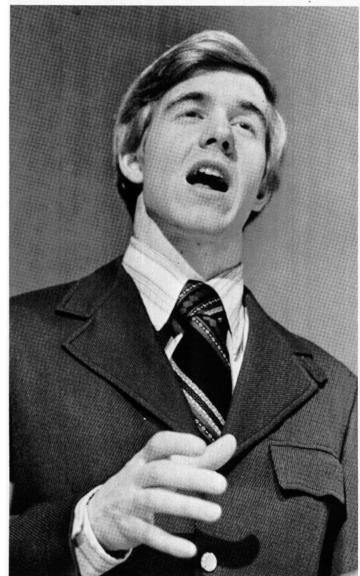

Expectations of life, how high are they? How idealistic?

Something worth while is worth waiting for. You won't find these things by looking for them . . . they just happen.

editor's note

Recently the relevancy of the yearbook has been questioned, and in many aspects rightly so, though too often the sole argument is financial. However, as with any educational concept, its worth is determined only by the attitude of the student. As an editor I see a mistake in each page, but at the same time realize that its surface value does not materialize for many years, and only the perceptive discover its personal value.

A special mention should be made for Deb and Carla whose devotion compensated for my lack of time and organization, and the rest of the staff that made this publication possible. Shelley's special talents and technical knowledge added a unique dimension to all of our ideas.
